British Begin Seizing Jews In Holy Land

40 Prominent Men Seized In Swoop

JERUSALEM, Aug. 5 (AP) — The British began the biggest roundup of Jewish leaders since underground resistance turned the Holy Land into a battlefield today—a roundup punctuated by a terror bomb which ripped off the front of the Labor Department building and killed three British policemen and probably an Arab watchman.

40 Are Seized

More than 40 prominent Jews were seized in the swoop by the military and Palestine police, some of whom reportedly were marked for deportation. An official source said 20 more were being sought.

The first official list of those arrested included David Stern, brother of the late Abraham Stern, founder the Stern gang, and named 35 lawyers, businessmen, journalists and Jewish officials.

Among those reported arrested were dissident members of Hagana, illegal Jewish defense organization, who had opposed the organization's "moderate" policy of opposing terrorism, and the mayors of the four all-Jewish cities of Tel Aviv, Ram At Gan, Petah, Tikvah and Natanya.

The mayor of Natanya, Oved Ben Ami, who went with troops to the eucalyptus grove near Natanya where the bodies of two "executed" British sergeants were found swinging in nooses last week, had repeatedly appealed to the underground to release the two soldiers.

The bomb which tore off the front of the Labor Department building in the Street of the Prophets exploded just after a telephone call had warned "the building is mined."

The chief clerk just had time to halt a passing armored car and the police were trying to drag the bomb out of the hallway when the explosive let go. One of the policemen was killed outright; two others were buried under the debris.

Arab Watchman Missing

The building's Arab watchman also was missing and was believed to have been crushed to death.

The blast threw parts of one body 400 yards, blew in the windows of the American Baptist Mission next door, injuring Mrs. Mildred Fried of Memphis, Tenn., who was cut by flying glass, and shattered windows for a block around.

Some Jewish quarters believed the blast was a retaliation for the cynamiting of a house in Givat Shaul late yesterday by the military who had found a cache of arms there.

The British at once announced that the dusk to dawn curfew on most of the Jewish quarters of Jerusalem, which was to have been lifted tonight after 15 days, would be reimposed.

Winchester Has $190,000 Fire

WINCHESTER, Va., Aug. 5—(AP)—Fire which started in a partly-razed six-story frame building of the Robinson Ice and Cold Storage Corporation shortly after noon today had been brought under control three hours later but not until after it had destroyed two other structures in the vicinity.

The aggregate loss was estimated by owners and firemen at about $190,000 with considerable insurance. The Robinson building that was destroyed was the original unit of the corporation. It was being razed to make way for a new and more modern structure.

Other losses included a two-story frame building that had been operated by Thomas Cather as an apple barrel and box manufacturing establishment but which had not been in use for that purpose for a year or two.

The third building destroyed was a frame structure owned by Glaize and Brothers and leased by the Zeropak Company. It was filled with materials used in packing and shipping of frozen fruits.

During the height of the fire, an ammonia pipeline in the old Robinson building burst, sending huge columns of white smoke into the sky. A two-story frame building owned by the Winchester Cold Storage Company and occupied by the Virginia Fruit Company at the end of the Hurst Packing Company at the other end ignited and suffered small damage.

Siegel Killer Rode His Car, Man Declares

Tells Police He 'Fears For Life'

WAURIKA, Okla., Aug. 5. (AP)—County Attorney John Hannah said today a man who "feared for his life" signed a statement declaring he drove a car for the man who killed gambler Bugsy Siegel in Beverly Hills June 20.

Hannah identified the man as Virgil Clark Manning, 28, of Los Angeles. He said Manning told him he had served a term for forgery in the Missouri penitentiary. (Records at the penitentiary show a Virgil Clark Manning served four years on a forgery conviction and was released in February, 1945).

Shot Through Window

Siegel was shot to death through an open window as he sat reading a newspaper. Nine slugs ripped into his body.

The killer is still at large.

In Beverly Hills, Police Chief C. H. Anderson said he had wired for a copy of the man's complete statement here and added:

"We've had many similar reports which came to nothing, but of course we'll investigate this thoroughly."

The reaction of Inspector Norris Stensland of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Homicide Department was one of frank skepticism.

"I think the guy just wants a free ride to California," Stensland commented.

Deputy Sheriff J. C. Gardner of Waurika said the man held here walked up to him on the main street and asked to be jailed to "protect him from Siegel's killer."

"The man appears rational to me," Gardner said, "and the county attorney also thinks he may be telling us a straight story.

Questioned At Length

"We have questioned him at length and he doesn't act like a crank and he doesn't get tangled up on details.

"He told us the man who actually killed Siegel hired him to watch the house where Siegel was killed for several days prior to the shooting.

"Then on the night of the shooting, he said he drove an automobile in which the killer escaped after Siegel was shot."

Siegel, once named a public enemy by Thomas E. Dewey when the latter was New York District Attorney, met death in a Beverly Hills mansion occupied by a friend, Virginia Hill.

He had arrived in Los Angeles a few hours earlier by plane from Las Vegas, Nev., where he operated the lavish Flamingo Hotel.

Break Is Coming In Heat Wave

[By The Associated Press]

A break began developing Tuesday in the year's worst heat wave as the number of heat deaths rose to at least 17.

However, only scattered relief was forecast for thirsting corn and vegetable crops in the midwest.

As thermometers in many midwest areas touched the 100-degree mark for the third consecutive day, a cold air front from Canada brought relief to parts of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Weather forecasters said the cooler air, from 15 to 20 degrees below temperatures prevailing during the heat wave, was moving eastward and would extend as far as Illinois and Indiana by Wednesday afternoon.

The cooler air brought showers to North Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota and scattered showers were forecast for the Northern Great Lakes area and in parts of Indiana, Ohio, Eastern Kentucky and Eastern Tennessee.

However, the main corn belt, in need of a good soaking rain, was not expected to receive any widespread relief.

The cooler Canadian air was expected to afford from 36 to 48 hours of relief with warmer weather forecast for later in the week. However, forecasters said temperatures probably would not go as high as during the current heat wave.

The third successive day of 100-degree heat caused three new deaths in St. Louis, bringing the total during the current wave to eight.

Chicago reported three fatal heat prostrations; Arkansas, three; Indiana, Tennessee and Pennsylvania, one each.

Among highest temperatures reported Tuesday: Advance, Mo., 107; Terre Haute, Ind., 102; Topeka, Kan., 103; Lincoln, Neb., 102; Burlington, Ia., 100.

Egypt Demands British Troops Leave Country

England Cites Treaty Of 1936

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 5 (AP) — Egypt today asked the United Nations Security Council to order the immediate evacuation of all British troopsf rom her soil. Britain immediately countered with a demand that the council throw out the complaint as unfounded.

Appealing to the U. N. to free Egypt from "British imperialism," Premier Nokrashy Pasha said "the very existence of Egypt as a sovereign state is here at stake" with the presence of British troops a "potential peril" to peace in the Middle East.

Asks U. N. Dismissal

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, said British troops were in Egypt under a 20-year treaty signed in 1936 and the council could do nothing but dismiss the case.

Cadogan said that if anybody was threatening peace in that area it was Egypt and not Britain. He added that Egypt was attempting to evade her international obligations accepted in the Anglo-Egyptian treaty, which he said could be altered or terminated only with the consent of both parties.

"There is only one real issue before the Security Council, namely validity of the 1936 treaty, and that is a legal one," Cadogan declared. "The Security Council cannot, in conformity with the purposes of the United Nations, countenance any failure to fulfill treaty obligations which are consistent with the charter."

After hearing the Egyptian and British statements, the council postponed discussion until next Monday to give delegates time to study the arguments.

Says Egypt "Not Bound"

"We are here," the Premier said, "to challenge the basic assumptions of Nineteenth Century imperialism."

The Premier said that Egypt no longer felt bound by a 20-year treaty, signed in 1936, providing for stationing of British troops in the strategic Mediterranean country. He said the pact was signed under duress and was contrary to the U. N. Charter and a General Assembly resolution ruling out any occupation without the consent of the parties.

Dewey Breaks His Campaign Silence

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 5—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today broke his silence on developing 1948 Presidential campaign issues by speaking out for the preservation of "the principles of union organization and collective bargaining."

Dewey's statement came four days after he returned from a 6,500 mile, month-long western tour during which he was called upon to declare himself on foreign and domestic issues.

One of his chief potential rivals for the Republican Presidential nomination, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, last week urged Republican leaders to discuss major issues frankly.

Dewey, in the pre-labor day statement, said:

"The administration of the government of New York state is dedicated to the principle that the principles of union organization and collective bargaining must be preserved."

The statement drew immediate comment from Louis Hollander, President of the New York State CIO Council which claims more than 1,250,000 members. Hollander said in New York City:

"Dewey's statement today suddenly to declare himself in love with organized labor after he was silent during the entire discussion of the Taft-Hartley Law is the greatest hypocrisy ever issued by a responsible government official. x x x in his whole career as governor he was revengeful to organized labor. x x x labor will remember Dewey's record of no love stories for Labor Day will help him."

Dewey was denounced vigorously by organized labor in New York for his sponsorship earlier this year of a state law prohibiting strikes by public employes.

In his statement today, New York's Chief Executive praised the state's labor leaders for what he described as their "patroitism, maturity and understanding."

21 Or 22 Persons Die In Collision

WAXAHACHIE, Tex., Aug. 5 (AP)—Either 21 or 22 persons were killed today when a gasoline tank truck and a truck loaded with negro workers collided and burned at dawn near here today. Four others were injured.

Nineteen bodies were recovered earlier in the day, and in the afternoon the fragments of either two or three more bodies were found trapped under the still smoldering wreckage.

The condition of the bodies was such that officials said they could not determine exactly how many persons had been pinned beneath the trucks.

The trucks, bathed in gasoline, blazed for hours after the crash and officers had to close the heavily-traveled highway, rerouting the Waco-Dallas traffic.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—"Bamboo," who yesterday celebrated his 21st birthday, munches a cardboard greeting card while ignoring his anniversary party goodies — vegetables, cake and a half a watermelon — lined up in the right corner of Philadelphia Zoo. Indonesian Army Charges Dutch Continue Advance

Says Cease-Fire Orders Violated

BATAVIA, Java, Aug. 5—(AP)—The Indonesian army charged tonight that Dutch troops on two fronts had violated cease-fire orders in the East Indies, and both Dutch and Republican leaders indicated their forces would answer shot-for-shot any resumption of hostilities by opposing units.

A Republican Army spokesman declared in a broadcast that a three-pronged Dutch force—operating in a central Java zone approximately 60 miles west of Jogjakarta—had continued attacking for two and a half hours after last midnight, the cease-fire deadline.

Seize Gombong

As a result of this action, the spokesman declared, the Dutch seized the town of Gombong, on the trunk rail line linking Batavia with Jogjakarta, the Republican capital.

The spokesman's accusation was repeated in a Republican communique which declared a violation also had occurred near Demak, 15 miles east of the north coast city of Semarang. The Indonesians claimed a Dutch amphibious force which landed near Semarang seized Demak and continued its advance southward after the deadline.

Thesre was no confirmation of these actions from the Dutch who previously had questioned whether the Indonesians could enforce a cease-fire among Republican troops.

Fighting took place along the strategic North Java Coast until shortly before midnight, a front dispatch said. Dutch columns speeding from opposite directions linked up a few hours before the deadline giving the Netherlands complete control of a coastal area extending from Batavia 218 airline miles eastward to Semarang, this account said.

Pushing Eastward

Dutch units pushing eastward from Pekalongan and Westward from Weleri near Kendal closed the final gap of 30 miles.

Before the Jogjakarta radio broadcast the Republican charges of Dutch violations, field advices from Semarang indicated the cease-fire was working out well in that area, previously the scene of persistent sniping and mortar fire.

The cease-fire orders of the Dutch and Indonesians complied with the call of the Unied Nations Security Council for a termination of the 15-day-old conflict in the rich Pacific Islands.

Hughes Takes Off For Washington

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5 (AP) — Millionaire plane builder Howard Hughes took off for Washington at 2:32 p. m., P.S.T., (5-32 p. m., E.S.T.) today to keep a date with the Senate War Investigating Committee, a spokesman announced.

Associates said Hughes' departure, in secrecy as far as the press was concerned, was from the Culver City Field of Hughes Aircraft Company. He flew in a B-23 converted bomber.

A spokesman declared that Hughes associates still do not know whether he planned to fly to Washington with a stop for fuel or make an overnight halt en route. If he should fly with only one stop for gas, the trip might take 10 to 12 hours, the spokesman figured, which would get Hughes to Washington somewhere between 3:30 and 5:30 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow.

Eccentric Slain After Fatally Wounding Officer

LYNDHURST, N. J., Aug. 5—(AP)—A tiny, gnome-like eccentric who claimed to be an American Indian was shot to death in a half-hour battle with police today after he had fatally wounded a policeman attempting to evict him from the lonely house he claimed was his.

He said he was "Charles Longboat," and told police he had "permission from Washington" to occupy the house, owned by Joseph Adavers. He had threatened in district court to "kill anyone" who attempted to remove him.

Longboat asserted he owed no rent, and Adavers said no rent had been paid in three years. Longboat had occupied the property five years.

A district court constable, Charles Hill, arrived this morning with two policemen to serve an eviction notice on the tenant. As Patrolman Thomas Albino attempted to force the barricaded front door, Longboat poked a sinble-barrelled shotgun through a glass panel and blasted the policeman in the chest.

Albino stumbled down the steps of the tiny porch and collapsed in the bushes. His companion, Patrolman William Brady, threw a quick shot at the door and ran to the police radio car to call for assistance.

Roosevelt Says Hughes' Present "Not Advisable"

Challenges Statement Over "Procured Girls"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP) — Elliott Roosevelt testified today he might be open to reprimand for letting plane manufacturer Howard Hughes foot a $576.83 hotel bill for him as "a wedding present."

Roosevelt also told a Senate War Investigating Subcommittee that Jack Frye, former president of Trans World Airline, which is controlled by Hughes, paid $850 in hotel costs for the marriage.

But the son of the wartime President angrily challenged Hughes' publicity man, John W. Meyer, to say whether girls listed on Meyer's expense account were "procured" for him.

Married Movie Actress

Roosevelt married movie actress Faye Emerson on December 3, 1944. He said he objects to "insinuations" about her, and has no knowledge of a gift of $132 of nylon stockings to her listed on Meyer's expense sheet.

"It might be said," Roosevelt declared, "that it was inadvisable for me to accept a wedding present from Howard Hughes."

And he added that "I believe on a strict interpretation of the law I might be reprimanded."

During the war, in which he climbed to the rank of brigadier general, Roosevelt commanded photographic reconnaissance operations in Africa and Europe. As head of a mission which returned to this country for a time, he recommended the government order photo reconnaissance planes from Hughes' company. None ever were delivered during the war.

The Senate Subcommittee is looking into $40,000,000 worth of plane contracts given Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser and is seeking to learn whether Roosevelt influenced the awards.

The hotel check paid by Hughes, Roosevelt said, was at the Beverly Hills Hotel in California. The time was shortly before his marriage. He was about to pay up, he related, when Meyer appeared, saying:

"You cannot pay that bill."

"I said," Elliott went on, "I certainly could and that I already had written the check."

Offered Wedding Gift

Meyer told him, he said, that Hughes wanted to pay the bill as a wedding gift.

His acceptance, Roosevelt declared, had no connection with Hughes aircraft.

The $850 paid by Frye, Roosevelt added, came out of Frye's own pocket.

In demanding that Meyer say whether girls were "procured" for him, Roosevelt stormed that it is "utterly despicable" that Meyer should indicate "every girl he got was for me."

And, complaining that he wasn't getting an answer, the second son of the wartime Chief Executive urged that the Senators "clear up my moral record."

Wright Leads Race For Miss. Governorship

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 5. (AP)—Gov. Fielding L. Wright led four opponents for the governorship of Mississippi tonight in early and scattered returns in the state's democratic primary election.

The unofficial count in 84 of the state's 1714 precincts gave Wright 1,957 votes; Paul B. Johnson, Jr., 749; Jesse M. Byrd 276; Frank L. Jacobs 88 and William Lycurgus Spinks 55.

7 Whites Free In Attempted Lynching

N. C. Governor Condemns Action

JACKSON, N. C., Aug. 5—(AP)—Seven white men were freed today on charges of a lynching attempt upon a young negro and shortly afterward Governor R. Gregg Cherry condemned failure of the Northhampton County Grand Jury to indict them as a "miscarriage of justice."

The grand jury, by failing to indict, also freed the negro, 24-year-old Godwin (Buddy) Bush, who had been charged with an attempted assault upon a young white married woman.

Expresses Disappointment

Governor Cherry, in Raleigh, expressing disappointment that no indictment was returned against the seven white men said action of the grand jury "does not close the case."

The governor said he would "instruct a Superior Court Judge to convene a court, sit as a committing magistrate, give thorough investigation to this matter, hear all available evidence, and commit those charged for trial in an adjoining county." This he said he could do under authority given him by North Carolina laws.

"Undoubtedly a crime has been committed by those who entered the Jackson Jail, and one of the members of the mob had confessed to the crime," the governor said. "The jury should have found a true bill in order that this evidence could have been heard in open court."

The report of the 18-man jury climaxed two days of tense courtroom proceedings. The grand jury had been asked by Solicitor Ernest R. Tyler yesterday to return true bills on each of three counts against the seven men; (1) kidnapping; (2) conspiracy to break and enter a jail with intent to injure or kill Bush; and (3) breaking and entering a jail with intent to injure or kill Bush.

Victim Attends Court

Solicitor Tyler made no comment on the action of the grand jury. The woman who allegedly had been attacked by Bush was in the courtroom when the decisions were announced.

Before a packed courtroom, Judge J. Paul Frizzelle told the seven accused white men: "You are at liberty to go." Broad smiles broke on their faces and they left the court room immediately.

Bush was taken from the Northhampton County Jail May 23 by armed and masked men, but he was able to escape from the mob. He hid for three days and then surrendered and was removed from the community for safe keeping. Later he returned to attend his father's funeral and has remained there without incident since.

Three Persons Are Slain By Farmer

PRINCETON, Ind., Aug. 5 (AP)—Officers summoned by a hysterical scream over a telephone hurried to a home two miles east of here early today and found a husband and wife shot to death and the decapitated body of a woman who had been living with them.

About half an hour later Roy Turpin, 48, farmer and former auto parts dealer, was taken into custody here and Sheriff James G. McDonald said he admitted orally the triple slaying.

The victims were Turpin's 50-year-old sister, Nora Turpin, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bateman.

Turpin was held in jail here without charge. Prosecutor Luther Benson said he would inquire into Turpin's mental condition before filing any charge.

The bodies of the Batemans were found in their bed while the body of Miss Turpin was found near the telephone over which she called the Princeton police station.

Herschell Wildt, a Princeton policeman, answered the call. He said that as he was talking to Miss Turpin he heard a shot fired.

Avoided Strike Fails To Keep Production Up

Parts Shortage Is Blamed For Action

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (AP) — The Ford Motor Company avoided a strike of 107,000 workers today but the same time announced a layoff of 51,000 starting within 24 hours.

Each development stemmed from the same general source — the consequences of a dispute over penalty provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

In avoiding a strike, Ford compromised its differences through a last minute truce with the CIO United Auto Workers and kept its car production moving.

Will Halt Production

Less than six hours after the deadline for the strike that never came off, however, the company announced it would halt until next Tuesday all assembly operations at the close of tomorrow's work.

This was necessary, the company said, because of a parts shortage caused by the strike of 7,000 workers in a supplier firm over the Taft-Hartley penalty provisions.

The Murray Corp., of America, which supplies car bodies and parts to Ford and other auto manufacturers, has been closed for nearly two weeks by a CIO-UAW strike. The union at Murray demands an immunity clause in its contract to protect against employer damage suits permitted under the new law.

A scant eight hours before a strike deadline, Ford and the UAW sealed a truce providing for a joint effort to secure a "solution" to the Taft-Hartley union-posed problem. The settlement gave the union at least a year's grace from any strike damage action under the law.

D. S. Harder, vice president and director of Ford Manufacturing, said the assembly-halt order would affect 35,000 Detroit area employes and 16,000 at branch plants through the nation.

A total of 55,500 thus will be involved in over-all layoffs as a result of the Murray strike, Harder said. Since July 25 a total of 4,500 workers on the Mercury and Lincoln assembly lines have been idle.

In the meanwhile Detroit's persistent 90-degree heat was blamed for idleness of an estimated 10,000 others. They were off the job in strikes or layoffs attributable to the weather.

These included 8,000 at the Hudson Motor Car Company, 1,900 at Chrysler's Kercheval Plant, and another 800 at Chrysler's Dodge Foundry.

Ford, after its late-hour compromise with the UAW-CIO in the Taft-Hartley squabble, reported a 10 per cent rise in absenteeism for the work day. The heat was held partly responsible, however.

The compromise allowed up to one year for a study of the TaftHartley penalty provisions by a bi-partisan four-member commission and deferred any strike action for at least 10 days.

Meeting Is Scheduled

It left terms of a proposed $15,000,000 a year pension system as the major issue barring complete agreement on a new contract.

The two sides scheduled a meeting Thursday to begin consideration of this final important obstacle.

Meanwhile, the company, the union and a Congressman who sponsored the new labor law hailed the strike-averting accord on the Taft-Hartley issue.

Henry Ford II, husky young president of the company who flew back from a vacation to face the crisis, termed the compromise "an eminently fair solution to a particularly thorny problem."

"Under today's settlement," he added, "opportunity has now been provided for finding in less hectic surroundings a solution within the spirit of the Taft-Hartley Law acceptable to both the company and the union."

In Los Angeles, Rep. Hartley expressed himself satisfied that the agreement was "an honest effort to comply with terms of the act and is not an evasion."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 5 (AP) — Almost complete tabulations from Saturday's primary elections showed today that Atty. Gen. Eldon S. Dummit, Lexington Republican, and Rep. Earle C. Clements, Morganfield Democrat, will meet in the November general election for the govenorship of Kentucky.

Factory Workers Earnings Average $1.22 Per Hour In June, BLS Shows

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — (AP) — The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated tonight that the average earnings of factory workers in June were $1.22 an hour and $48.91 a week—both new records.

The preliminary estimates, to be adjusted later, show hourly earnings in the first half of the year have increased slightly over five per cent.

During this period last year, the increase was eight per cent, reflecting the differences between the so-called "first round" of postwar wage increases and the "second round."

Weekly earnings have risen almost four per cent in the first six months of 1947, despite a slight reduction in the work week since January. The June hourly earnings of $1.22 compares with $1.208 in May. The June weekly figure of $48.91 compares with the May average of $48.46.

In the durable goods industries (steel, autos, etc.) the average hourly earnings rose to $1.294 and the average weekly earnings to $52.39.

In the non-durable goods industries (food, textiles, chemicals, etc.) the average hourly earnings rose to $1.138 and the average weekly earnings to $45.08.

Hiroshima Plans Peace Memorial On Site Where A-Bomb Exploded

HIROSHIMA, Wednesday, Aug. 6 (AP) — Hiroshima looked hopefully to a future of peace and reconstruction today—just two years after an atomic bomb made casualties of 92,000 of its residents.

Exactly at 8:14 a. m. (6:14 p. m., Tuesday, EST) bells were to toll for one minute and citizens were to stand in silent prayer.

That was the only official recollection of the death and devastation —more than half of Hiroshima's homes and buildings were destroyed —of the fearsome blast.

One minute later, in Tokyo, General MacArthur was to release an anniversary statement.

Mayor Shisso Hamai announced completion of a plan for a modern Hiroshima, featuring a peace memorial marking the site of the atomic blast. It was prepared with the help of Australian engineers.

Hamai said the three-day anniversary observance which began yesterday is designed to encourage rebuilding of the city with the object of making Hiroshima forever a symbol of the futility of war. To date, about 20,000 temporary shelters have been erected.

British Begin Seizing Jews In Holy Land

40 Prominent Men Seized In Swoop

JERUSALEM, Aug. 5 (AP) — The British began the biggest roundup of Jewish leaders since underground resistance turned the Holy Land into a battlefield today—a roundup punctuated by a terror bomb which ripped off the front of the Labor Department building and killed three British policemen and probably an Arab watchman.

40 Are Seized

More than 40 prominent Jews were seized in the swoop by the military and Palestine police, some of whom reportedly were marked for deportation. An official source said 20 more were being sought.

The first official list of those arrested included David Stern, brother of the late Abraham Stern, founder the Stern gang, and named 35 lawyers, businessmen, journalists and Jewish officials.

Among those reported arrested were dissident members of Hagana, illegal Jewish defense organization, who had opposed the organization's "moderate" policy of opposing terrorism, and the mayors of the four all-Jewish cities of Tel Aviv, Ram At Gan, Petah, Tikvah and Natanya.

The mayor of Natanya, Oved Ben Ami, who went with troops to the eucalyptus grove near Natanya where the bodies of two "executed" British sergeants were found swinging in nooses last week, had repeatedly appealed to the underground to release the two soldiers.

The bomb which tore off the front of the Labor Department building in the Street of the Prophets exploded just after a telephone call had warned "the building is mined."

The chief clerk just had time to halt a passing armored car and the police were trying to drag the bomb out of the hallway when the explosive let go. One of the policemen was killed outright; two others were buried under the debris.

Arab Watchman Missing

The building's Arab watchman also was missing and was believed to have been crushed to death.

The blast threw parts of one body 400 yards, blew in the windows of the American Baptist Mission next door, injuring Mrs. Mildred Fried of Memphis, Tenn., who was cut by flying glass, and shattered windows for a block around.

Some Jewish quarters believed the blast was a retaliation for the cynamiting of a house in Givat Shaul late yesterday by the military who had found a cache of arms there.

The British at once announced that the dusk to dawn curfew on most of the Jewish quarters of Jerusalem, which was to have been lifted tonight after 15 days, would be reimposed.

Winchester Has $190,000 Fire

WINCHESTER, Va., Aug. 5—(AP)—Fire which started in a partly-razed six-story frame building of the Robinson Ice and Cold Storage Corporation shortly after noon today had been brought under control three hours later but not until after it had destroyed two other structures in the vicinity.

The aggregate loss was estimated by owners and firemen at about $190,000 with considerable insurance. The Robinson building that was destroyed was the original unit of the corporation. It was being razed to make way for a new and more modern structure.

Other losses included a two-story frame building that had been operated by Thomas Cather as an apple barrel and box manufacturing establishment but which had not been in use for that purpose for a year or two.

The third building destroyed was a frame structure owned by Glaize and Brothers and leased by the Zeropak Company. It was filled with materials used in packing and shipping of frozen fruits.

During the height of the fire, an ammonia pipeline in the old Robinson building burst, sending huge columns of white smoke into the sky. A two-story frame building owned by the Winchester Cold Storage Company and occupied by the Virginia Fruit Company at the end of the Hurst Packing Company at the other end ignited and suffered small damage.

Siegel Killer Rode His Car, Man Declares

Tells Police He 'Fears For Life'

WAURIKA, Okla., Aug. 5. (AP)—County Attorney John Hannah said today a man who "feared for his life" signed a statement declaring he drove a car for the man who killed gambler Bugsy Siegel in Beverly Hills June 20.

Hannah identified the man as Virgil Clark Manning, 28, of Los Angeles. He said Manning told him he had served a term for forgery in the Missouri penitentiary. (Records at the penitentiary show a Virgil Clark Manning served four years on a forgery conviction and was released in February, 1945).

Shot Through Window

Siegel was shot to death through an open window as he sat reading a newspaper. Nine slugs ripped into his body.

The killer is still at large.

In Beverly Hills, Police Chief C. H. Anderson said he had wired for a copy of the man's complete statement here and added:

"We've had many similar reports which came to nothing, but of course we'll investigate this thoroughly."

The reaction of Inspector Norris Stensland of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Homicide Department was one of frank skepticism.

"I think the guy just wants a free ride to California," Stensland commented.

Deputy Sheriff J. C. Gardner of Waurika said the man held here walked up to him on the main street and asked to be jailed to "protect him from Siegel's killer."

"The man appears rational to me," Gardner said, "and the county attorney also thinks he may be telling us a straight story.

Questioned At Length

"We have questioned him at length and he doesn't act like a crank and he doesn't get tangled up on details.

"He told us the man who actually killed Siegel hired him to watch the house where Siegel was killed for several days prior to the shooting.

"Then on the night of the shooting, he said he drove an automobile in which the killer escaped after Siegel was shot."

Siegel, once named a public enemy by Thomas E. Dewey when the latter was New York District Attorney, met death in a Beverly Hills mansion occupied by a friend, Virginia Hill.

He had arrived in Los Angeles a few hours earlier by plane from Las Vegas, Nev., where he operated the lavish Flamingo Hotel.

Break Is Coming In Heat Wave

[By The Associated Press]

A break began developing Tuesday in the year's worst heat wave as the number of heat deaths rose to at least 17.

However, only scattered relief was forecast for thirsting corn and vegetable crops in the midwest.

As thermometers in many midwest areas touched the 100-degree mark for the third consecutive day, a cold air front from Canada brought relief to parts of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Weather forecasters said the cooler air, from 15 to 20 degrees below temperatures prevailing during the heat wave, was moving eastward and would extend as far as Illinois and Indiana by Wednesday afternoon.

The cooler air brought showers to North Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota and scattered showers were forecast for the Northern Great Lakes area and in parts of Indiana, Ohio, Eastern Kentucky and Eastern Tennessee.

However, the main corn belt, in need of a good soaking rain, was not expected to receive any widespread relief.

The cooler Canadian air was expected to afford from 36 to 48 hours of relief with warmer weather forecast for later in the week. However, forecasters said temperatures probably would not go as high as during the current heat wave.

The third successive day of 100-degree heat caused three new deaths in St. Louis, bringing the total during the current wave to eight.

Among highest temperatures reported Tuesday: Advance, Mo., 107; Terre Haute, Ind., 102; Topeka, Kan., 103; Lincoln, Neb., 102; Burlington, Ia., 100.

Egypt Demands British Troops Leave Country

England Cites Treaty Of 1936

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 5 (AP) — Egypt today asked the United Nations Security Council to order the immediate evacuation of all British troopsf rom her soil. Britain immediately countered with a demand that the council throw out the complaint as unfounded.

Appealing to the U. N. to free Egypt from "British imperialism," Premier Nokrashy Pasha said "the very existence of Egypt as a sovereign state is here at stake" with the presence of British troops a "potential peril" to peace in the Middle East.

Asks U. N. Dismissal

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, said British troops were in Egypt under a 20-year treaty signed in 1936 and the council could do nothing but dismiss the case.

Cadogan said that if anybody was threatening peace in that area it was Egypt and not Britain. He added that Egypt was attempting to evade her international obligations accepted in the Anglo-Egyptian treaty, which he said could be altered or terminated only with the consent of both parties.

"There is only one real issue before the Security Council, namely validity of the 1936 treaty, and that is a legal one," Cadogan declared. "The Security Council cannot, in conformity with the purposes of the United Nations, countenance any failure to fulfill treaty obligations which are consistent with the charter."

After hearing the Egyptian and British statements, the council postponed discussion until next Monday to give delegates time to study the arguments.

Says Egypt "Not Bound"

"We are here," the Premier said, "to challenge the basic assumptions of Nineteenth Century imperialism."

The Premier said that Egypt no longer felt bound by a 20-year treaty, signed in 1936, providing for stationing of British troops in the strategic Mediterranean country. He said the pact was signed under duress and was contrary to the U. N. Charter and a General Assembly resolution ruling out any occupation without the consent of the parties.

Dewey Breaks His Campaign Silence

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 5—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today broke his silence on developing 1948 Presidential campaign issues by speaking out for the preservation of "the principles of union organization and collective bargaining."

Dewey's statement came four days after he returned from a 6,500 mile, month-long western tour during which he was called upon to declare himself on foreign and domestic issues.

One of his chief potential rivals for the Republican Presidential nomination, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, last week urged Republican leaders to discuss major issues frankly.

Dewey, in the pre-labor day statement, said:

"The administration of the government of New York state is dedicated to the principle that the principles of union organization and collective bargaining must be preserved."

The statement drew immediate comment from Louis Hollander, President of the New York State CIO Council which claims more than 1,250,000 members. Hollander said in New York City:

"Dewey's statement today suddenly to declare himself in love with organized labor after he was silent during the entire discussion of the Taft-Hartley Law is the greatest hypocrisy ever issued by a responsible government official. x x x in his whole career as governor he was revengeful to organized labor. x x x labor will remember Dewey's record of no love stories for Labor Day will help him."

Dewey was denounced vigorously by organized labor in New York for his sponsorship earlier this year of a state law prohibiting strikes by public employes.

In his statement today, New York's Chief Executive praised the state's labor leaders for what he described as their "patroitism, maturity and understanding."

21 Or 22 Persons Die In Collision

WAXAHACHIE, Tex., Aug. 5 (AP) —Either 21 or 22 persons were killed today when a gasoline tank truck and a truck loaded with negro workers collided and burned at dawn near here today. Four others were injured.

Nineteen bodies were recovered earlier in the day, and in the afternoon the fragments of either two or three more bodies were found trapped under the still smoldering wreckage.

The condition of the bodies was such that officials said they could not determine exactly how many persons had been pinned beneath the trucks.

The trucks, bathed in gasoline, blazed for hours after the crash and officers had to close the heavily-traveled highway, rerouting the Waco-Dallas traffic.

Indonesian Army Charges Dutch Continue Advance

Says Cease-Fire Orders Violated

BATAVIA, Java, Aug. 5—(AP)—The Indonesian army charged tonight that Dutch troops on two fronts had violated cease-fire orders in the East Indies, and both Dutch and Republican leaders indicated their forces would answer shot-for-shot any resumption of hostilities by opposing units.

A Republican Army spokesman declared in a broadcast that a three-pronged Dutch force—operating in a central Java zone approximately 60 miles west of Jogjakarta—had continued attacking for two and a half hours after last midnight, the cease-fire deadline.

Seize Gombong

As a result of this action, the spokesman declared, the Dutch seized the town of Gombong, on the trunk rail line linking Batavia with Jogjakarta, the Republican capital.

The spokesman's accusation was repeated in a Republican communique which declared a violation also had occurred near Demak, 15 miles east of the north coast city of Semarang. The Indonesians claimed a Dutch amphibious force which landed near Semarang seized Demak and continued its advance southward after the deadline.

Thesre was no confirmation of these actions from the Dutch who previously had questioned whether the Indonesians could enforce a cease-fire among Republican troops.

Fighting took place along the strategic North Java Coast until shortly before midnight, a front dispatch said. Dutch columns speeding from opposite directions linked up a few hours before the deadline giving the Netherlands complete control of a coastal area extending from Batavia 218 airline miles eastward to Semarang, this account said.

Pushing Eastward

Dutch units pushing eastward from Pekalongan and Westward from Weleri near Kendal closed the final gap of 30 miles.

Before the Jogjakarta radio broadcast the Republican charges of Dutch violations, field advices from Semarang indicated the cease-fire was working out well in that area, previously the scene of persistent sniping and mortar fire.

The cease-fire orders of the Dutch and Indonesians complied with the call of the Unied Nations Security Council for a termination of the 15-day-old conflict in the rich Pacific Islands.

Hughes Takes Off For Washington

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5 (AP) — Millionaire plane builder Howard Hughes took off for Washington at 2:32 p. m., P.S.T., (5-32 p. m., E.S.T.) today to keep a date with the Senate War Investigating Committee, a spokesman announced.

Associates said Hughes' departure, in secrecy as far as the press was concerned, was from the Culver City Field of Hughes Aircraft Company. He flew in a B-23 converted bomber.

A spokesman declared that Hughes associates still do not know whether he planned to fly to Washington with a stop for fuel or make an overnight halt en route. If he should fly with only one stop for gas, the trip might take 10 to 12 hours, the spokesman figured, which would get Hughes to Washington somewhere between 3:30 and 5:30 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow.

Eccentric Slain After Fatally Wounding Officer

LYNDHURST, N. J., Aug. 5—(AP) —A tiny, gnome-like eccentric who claimed to be an American Indian was shot to death in a half-hour battle with police today after he had fatally wounded a policeman attempting to evict him from the lonely house he claimed was his.

He said he was "Charles Longboat," and told police he had "permission from Washington" to occupy the house, owned by Joseph Adavers. He had threatened in district court to "kill anyone" who attempted to remove him.

Longboat asserted he owed no rent, and Adavers said no rent had been paid in three years. Longboat had occupied the property five years.

A district court constable, Charles Hill, arrived this morning with two policemen to serve an eviction notice on the tenant. As Patrolman Thomas Albino attempted to force the barricaded front door, Longboat poked a sinble-barrelled shotgun through a glass panel and blasted the policeman in the chest.

Albino stumbled down the steps of the tiny porch and collapsed in the bushes. His companion, Patrolman William Brady, threw a quick shot at the door and ran to the police radio car to call for assistance.

Roosevelt Says Hughes' Present "Not Advisable"

Challenges Statement Over "Procured Girls"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP) — Elliott Roosevelt testified today he might be open to reprimand for letting plane manufacturer Howard Hughes foot a $576.83 hotel bill for him as "a wedding present."

Roosevelt also told a Senate War Investigating Subcommittee that Jack Frye, former president of Trans World Airline, which is controlled by Hughes, paid $850 in hotel costs for the marriage.

But the son of the wartime President angrily challenged Hughes' publicity man, John W. Meyer, to say whether girls listed on Meyer's expense account were "procured" for him.

Married Movie Actress

Roosevelt married movie actress Faye Emerson on December 3, 1944. He said he objects to "insinuations" about her, and has no knowledge of a gift of $132 of nylon stockings to her listed on Meyer's expense sheet.

"It might be said," Roosevelt declared, "that it was inadvisable for me to accept a wedding present from Howard Hughes."

And he added that "I believe on a strict interpretation of the law I might be reprimanded."

During the war, in which he climbed to the rank of brigadier general, Roosevelt commanded photographic reconnaissance operations in Africa and Europe. As head of a mission which returned to this country for a time, he recommended the government order photo reconnaissance planes from Hughes' company. None ever were delivered during the war.

The Senate Subcommittee is looking into $40,000,000 worth of plane contracts given Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser and is seeking to learn whether Roosevelt influenced the awards.

The hotel check paid by Hughes, Roosevelt said, was at the Beverly Hills Hotel in California. The time was shortly before his marriage. He was about to pay up, he related, when Meyer appeared, saying:

"You cannot pay that bill."

"I said," Elliott went on, "I certainly could and that I already had written the check."

Offered Wedding Gift

Meyer told him, he said, that Hughes wanted to pay the bill as a wedding gift.

His acceptance, Roosevelt declared, had no connection with Hughes aircraft.

The $850 paid by Frye, Roosevelt added, came out of Frye's own pocket.

In demanding that Meyer say whether girls were "procured" for him, Roosevelt stormed that it is "utterly despicable" that Meyer should indicate "every girl he got was for me."

And, complaining that he wasn't getting an answer, the second son of the wartime Chief Executive urged that the Senators "clear up my moral record."

Wright Leads Race For Miss. Governorship

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 5. (AP)—Gov. Fielding L. Wright led four opponents for the governorship of Mississippi tonight in early and scattered returns in the state's democratic primary election.

The unofficial count in 84 of the state's 1714 precincts gave Wright 1,957 votes; Paul B. Johnson, Jr., 749; Jesse M. Byrd 276; Frank L. Jacobs 88 and William Lycurgus Spinks 55.

7 Whites Free In Attempted Lynching

N. C. Governor Condemns Action

JACKSON, N. C., Aug. 5—(AP)—Seven white men were freed today on charges of a lynching attempt upon a young negro and shortly afterward Governor R. Gregg Cherry condemned failure of the Northhampton County Grand Jury to indict them as a "miscarriage of justice."

The grand jury, by failing to indict, also freed the negro, 24-year-old Godwin (Buddy) Bush, who had been charged with an attempted assault upon a young white married woman.

Expresses Disappointment

Governor Cherry, in Raleigh, expressing disappointment that no indictment was returned against the seven white men said action of the grand jury "does not close the case."

The governor said he would "instruct a Superior Court Judge to convene a court, sit as a committing magistrate, give thorough investigation to this matter, hear all available evidence, and commit those charged for trial in an adjoining county." This he said he could do under authority given him by North Carolina laws.

"Undoubtedly a crime has been committed by those who entered the Jackson Jail, and one of the members of the mob had confessed to the crime," the governor said. "The jury should have found a true bill in order that this evidence could have been heard in open court."

The report of the 18-man jury climaxed two days of tense courtroom proceedings. The grand jury had been asked by Solicitor Ernest R. Tyler yesterday to return true bills on each of three counts against the seven men; (1) kidnapping; (2) conspiracy to break and enter a jail with intent to injure or kill Bush; and (3) breaking and entering a jail with intent to injure or kill Bush.

Victim Attends Court

Solicitor Tyler made no comment on the action of the grand jury. The woman who allegedly had been attacked by Bush was in the courtroom when the decisions were announced.

Before a packed courtroom, Judge J. Paul Frizzelle told the seven accused white men: "You are at liberty to go." Broad smiles broke on their faces and they left the court room immediately.

Bush was taken from the Northhampton County Jail May 23 by armed and masked men, but he was able to escape from the mob. He hid for three days and then surrendered and was removed from the community for safe keeping. Later he returned to attend his father's funeral and has remained there without incident since.

Three Persons Are Slain By Farmer

PRINCETON, Ind., Aug. 5 (AP)—Officers summoned by a hysterical scream over a telephone hurried to a home two miles east of here early today and found a husband and wife shot to death and the decapitated body of a woman who had been living with them.

About half an hour later Roy Turpin, 48, farmer and former auto parts dealer, was taken into custody here and Sheriff James G. McDonald said he admitted orally the triple slaying.

The victims were Turpin's 50-year-old sister, Nora Turpin, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bateman.

Turpin was held in jail here without charge. Prosecutor Luther Benson said he would inquire into Turpin's mental condition before filing any charge.

The bodies of the Batemans were found in their bed while the body of Miss Turpin was found near the telephone over which she called the Princeton police station.

Herschell Wildt, a Princeton policeman, answered the call. He said that as he was talking to Miss Turpin he heard a shot fired.

Avoided Strike Fails To Keep Production Up

Parts Shortage Is Blamed For Action

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (AP) — The Ford Motor Company avoided a strike of 107,000 workers today but the same time announced a layoff of 51,000 starting within 24 hours.

Each development stemmed from the same general source — the consequences of a dispute over penalty provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

In avoiding a strike, Ford compromised its differences through a last minute truce with the CIO United Auto Workers and kept its car production moving.

Will Halt Production

Less than six hours after the deadline for the strike that never came off, however, the company announced it would halt until next Tuesday all assembly operations at the close of tomorrow's work.

This was necessary, the company said, because of a parts shortage caused by the strike of 7,000 workers in a supplier firm over the Taft-Hartley penalty provisions.

The Murray Corp., of America, which supplies car bodies and parts to Ford and other auto manufacturers, has been closed for nearly two weeks by a CIO-UAW strike. The union at Murray demands an immunity clause in its contract to protect against employer damage suits permitted under the new law.

A scant eight hours before a strike deadline, Ford and the UAW sealed a truce providing for a joint effort to secure a "solution" to the Taft-Hartley union-posed problem. The settlement gave the union at least a year's grace from any strike damage action under the law.

D. S. Harder, vice president and director of Ford Manufacturing, said the assembly-halt order would affect 35,000 Detroit area employes and 16,000 at branch plants through the nation.

A total of 55,500 thus will be involved in over-all layoffs as a result of the Murray strike, Harder said. Since July 25 a total of 4,500 workers on the Mercury and Lincoln assembly lines have been idle.

In the meanwhile Detroit's persistent 90-degree heat was blamed for idleness of an estimated 10,000 others. They were off the job in strikes or layoffs attributable to the weather.

These included 8,000 at the Hudson Motor Car Company, 1,900 at Chrysler's Kercheval Plant, and another 800 at Chrysler's Dodge Foundry.

Ford, after its late-hour compromise with the UAW-CIO in the Taft-Hartley squabble, reported a 10 per cent rise in absenteeism for the work day. The heat was held partly responsible, however.

The compromise allowed up to one year for a study of the TaftHartley penalty provisions by a bi-partisan four-member commission and deferred any strike action for at least 10 days.

Meeting Is Scheduled

It left terms of a proposed $15,000,000 a year pension system as the major issue barring complete agreement on a new contract.

The two sides scheduled a meeting Thursday to begin consideration of this final important obstacle.

Meanwhile, the company, the union and a Congressman who sponsored the new labor law hailed the strike-averting accord on the Taft-Hartley issue.

Henry Ford II, husky young president of the company who flew back from a vacation to face the crisis, termed the compromise "an eminently fair solution to a particularly thorny problem."

"Under today's settlement," he added, "opportunity has now been provided for finding in less hectic surroundings a solution within the spirit of the Taft-Hartley Law acceptable to both the company and the union."

In Los Angeles, Rep. Hartley expressed himself satisfied that the agreement was "an honest effort to comply with terms of the act and is not an evasion."

Factory Workers Earnings Average $1.22 Per Hour In June, BLS Shows

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — (AP) — The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated tonight that the average earnings of factory workers in June were $1.22 an hour and $48.91 a week—both new records.

The preliminary estimates, to be adjusted later, show hourly earnings in the first half of the year have increased slightly over five per cent.

During this period last year, the increase was eight per cent, reflecting the differences between the so-called "first round" of postwar wage increases and the "second round."

Weekly earnings have risen almost four per cent in the first six months of 1947, despite a slight reduction in the work week since January. The June hourly earnings of $1.22 compares with $1.208 in May. The June weekly figure of $48.91 compares with the May average of $48.46.

In the durable goods industries (steel, autos, etc.) the average hourly earnings rose to $1.294 and the average weekly earnings to $52.39.

In the non-durable goods industries (food, textiles, chemicals, etc.) the average hourly earnings rose to $1.138 and the average weekly earnings to $45.08.

Hiroshima Plans Peace Memorial On Site Where A-Bomb Exploded

HIROSHIMA, Wednesday, Aug. 6 (AP) — Hiroshima looked hopefully to a future of peace and reconstruction today—just two years after an atomic bomb made casualties of 92,000 of its residents.

Exactly at 8:14 a. m. (6:14 p. m., Tuesday, EST) bells were to toll for one minute and citizens were to stand in silent prayer.

That was the only official recollection of the death and devastation —more than half of Hiroshima's homes and buildings were destroyed —of the fearsome blast.

One minute later, in Tokyo, General MacArthur was to release an anniversary statement.

Mayor Shisso Hamai announced completion of a plan for a modern Hiroshima, featuring a peace memorial marking the site of the atomic blast. It was prepared with the help of Australian engineers.

Hamai said the three-day anniversary observance which began yesterday is designed to encourage rebuilding of the city with the object of making Hiroshima forever a symbol of the futility of war. To date, about 20,000 temporary shelters have been erected.

Police Report Clubs Are Found Observing Sunday Ban

That the law prohibiting the sale of alcoholic drinks in clubs of fraternal, civic and veterans' organizations on Sunday is apparently being observed, as disclosed after a survey by the Cumberland Police Department over the weekend, no doubt brought a feeling of satisfaction to a vast majority of our citizens.

The police investigation took three hours and covered thirty local "Clubs" holding liquor licenses. It followed a check made Friday night on the same Clubs to determine if gaming devices were being maintained.

The two officers who made the investigations Sunday reported they found only four Clubs open at the time of the inspection, but they made spot checks later to "satisfy" department heads that the Clubs had not closed for a brief period.

There are those, of course, who will claim, and others will, no doubt, nurse the same thought, that such an inspection, especially when made by only two officers, over such a long space of time, could not be effective, because after the first Clubs had been visited, and after the officers had left, those inspected could quickly advise others that the investigation was on. If such were true it would permit plenty of time for the unvisited Clubs to clear their decks of any evidence of violations.

Certainly, such a possibility does exist, and probably future investigations could be made more convincing to the skeptics if a greater number of Clubs could be visited simultaneously. Police manpower, of course, enters into such an elaborate undertaking, and the danger of word getting out that an investigation was about to be launched would be increased with so many officers involved. But heads of police departments elsewhere have ways of preventing "leaks" when simultaneous inspections or raids, as the case might be, are scheduled. Manpower need not be a problem in carrying out such operations. Officers off duty could be used for an hour or two to augment the number of men available from the "shift" on duty.

But we like to believe that those responsible for the operation of Clubs holding liquor and beer licenses realize the risk they will take of losing those privileges if they permit the law to be violated, and that they will see to it that their bars are closed to all comers on the Sabbath.

We also like to believe the Police Department is making a sincere effort to see that the law is being adhered to, and that slot machines are being banished for all time. Proof of that sincerity can not but stimulate greater confidence of the people of the city in the police officers and those directing their activities.

China's first zoo was called "Intelligence Park." Evidently the Chinese don't think dumb animals are so dumb.

Allegany County Singularly Honored With Two "Beauties"

Seldom, if ever, has one county in Maryland been so fortunate as to have two beauty contestants adjudged the winners over a field as large as the one that competed for the title of "Miss Maryland," but that was the honor that came to Allegany county Monday night when Miss Jean Dixon, as "Miss Cumberland," was selected the top beauty of the State, and Miss Betty Lou Rankin, as "Miss Lonaconing," was chosen as second in line.

If we are to accept the score cards of the judges as a basis, and we do, it was a close contest between all eight of those aspiring for the" Miss Maryland" title, which, in itself, brings glory enough to all. The contest between the Cumberland and Lonaconing contestants was, apparently, especially close, with the result see-sawing back and forth as the various appearances of the young ladies unfolded before the critical eyes of the judges.

This fact can best be appreciated when it is noted that the evening gown competition found "Miss Cumberland" second, and "Miss Lonaconing" failing to get into the first three rank. "Miss Lonaconing" overcame this initial handicap during the talent competition, while "Miss Cumberland" made more certain her selection as the top winner when she finished second in this event. The final competition—that of appearance in bathing suits—clinched the honor for "Miss Cumberland" when she was scored "first."

Cumberland, to be certain, is happy over the result, while Lonaconing must have experienced a feeling of great pride in the knowledge its "favorite daughter" had won such high honors. But, neither city was any happier than The Cumberland News that such honors had come to them.

To be sure, we cannot be among the first to congratulate each of them on their accomplishment, but we do want to extend it, and to hope Miss Jean Dixon, first as "Miss Cumberland," and now as "Miss Maryland," will realize her ambition to pursue her higher education program by coming through with the title of "Miss America" at Atlantic City.

Wouldn't it be great if we knew that all our public officials were 100 per cent Americans.

Misinformed

Former U. S. Chamber of Commerce President Eric Johnston is back from Europe and his comments on the international scene have been realistic and penetrating.

One of the things that impressed him most was the immense amount of misinformation on the United States prevailing even among cabinet ministers. Most Europeans, he said, "knew" that America would soon have an economic crash which would make the 1929 depression look like the good old days. Hence this country couldn't keep its promises to aid Europe.

Many intelligent Europeans told him they weren't "fooled" by the tale that many American workmen own automobiles. Those pictures of cars parked outside factories, they said, were obviously faked!

Such a fund of misinformation is plainly a barrier to America's world influence.

There is a need for "cultural exchange"—like sending American students to Norway and bringing Norwegian students here for a year's schooling. It might not be a bad idea to exchange factory workers, too. Since seeing is believing, that is probably the only way to spread the knowledge of the American system which is needed to counter Russian propaganda.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

INSECT CONTROL MEASURES

FEMALE mosquitoes feed on warmblooded animals and most of us do not like it at all when we are victims. Biting and removing a little blood is bad enough, but when they leave a disease in return, we are ready to fight back.

How do mosquitoes know that we are in the neighborhood, sitting about peacefully waiting to be bitten? After all, there must be some attraction which sends them from their homes and loved ones to their prey. It cannot be chance because the buzzers are able to find a human being no matter how careful he is to hide himself. A few scientists from Jerusalem did some research on the problem and decided that we exhale certain substances which exert an attraction. The expired material is carried everywhere by mild air current which help direct the insects to the source.

But this is only part of the work that is being done in an attempt to control our number one enemies. For many years, oil of citronella could be found in every household. When smeared on the body, it was supposed to afford protection against mosquitoes and other pests. Apparently insects found the odor unattractive and flew elsewhere for their food.

But the preparation was far from ideal and many chemical laboratories went into action to discover a more perfect repellent. Hundreds of compounds were studied but only a few appeared to meet all of the requirements. The atmospheric environment played a part; many were effective for only a short period of time. Others irritated the skin after many applications. Sometimes the chemical was affected by perspiration and the majority were soluble in water. Odor and storage properties were other factors. At the present time there are several new repellents—some on the market and others not yet available.

The trend nowadays is to attack insects in their egg or larvel stages. This has worked out well with mosquitoes especially in areas where they were abundant and of the type that transmitted malaria. The use of larvicides has been added to swamp drainage, spraying oil on water, screens and mosquito netting. A combination of DDT and fuel oil may be sprayed in the form of a mist and the airplane has proved useful in covering large areas.

The destruction of fly larvae calls for somewhat different methods as the maggots do not live in water but in barns, stables, alleys, and dumps. DDT is not effective against embryo insects but if applied to breeding places, will eliminate the adults as they emerge. In one investigation of the value of DDT combined with solvents as larvicides, the solvent alone sometimes proved more effective. This means that research must continue until a successful chemical mixture is formulated.

Meanwhile the business man, farmer, and householder can do his share in fly control by proper garbage and manure disposal, the use of sanitary privies, and the employment of incinerators rather than rumps.

Many individuals are bothered in this way when they are overfatigued or excited. In slipping from the conscious to the unconscious, numerous ill-defined and bizarre thoughts intrude upon the mind.

INTESTINAL SPASM

The main causes are dietary indiscretions and nervousness. The condition is common in tense individuals, particularly when associated with overwork, lack of sleep, and spending too little time selecting and eating proper foods.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

A motion was made in Congress to start a nation-wide lottery to help reduce taxes and pay off the national debt. If the government starts collecting money through games of chance, there will be a lot of changes in the national capital. Yes sir, Washington is liable to put Reno off the map as a place to make a quick dollar.

When they talk of "Rules of the House" they won't be referring to legislative regulations in the House of Representatives. They will mean you can't cash in your chips until the place closes. And bookies will assume a new stature in American life. They will become known as "the men who got the nation back on its feet." In fact, I wouldn't be surprised if they judge the next President not by his political abilities, but by how fast he pays off.

The Government will be getting money in all sorts of ways. When you get on a bus, the driver won't hand you a transfer. You will drop your dime in a pari-mutuel machine and the card will quote the odds against your getting a seat. Even the movie houses will become a big source of income to the nation. Just picture those pretty usherettes with their tight blouses, short skirts and green eyeshades.

But if the Government adopts this idea, a winning ticket here in America may have repercussions around the world. I can see a horse coming around the far turn now and as he thunders into the stretch he yells to the next horse "out of my way—please. If I don't win this race, Afghanistan won't get its loan."

Senora Peron Phoned Husband Nightly From Europe; Was Worried Over Rumors of Danger For Her in France; Political Menace To Him in Argentina

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — Vivacious, sensational Sra. Eva Duarte De Peron, wife of the Argentine President, now has received decorations from Dictator Franco and Pope Pius XII, and has toured the capitals of many European countries.

During her tour, she conversed nightly by trans-Atlantic telephone with her husband in Buenos Aires. Apparently she was worried about Peron's political situation. In order to ensure maximum privacy for these talks, Argentine communications officials used a special high-frequency, ultrashortwave radio-telephone circuit. Despite these precautions, the Merry-Go-Round herewith presents a verbatim excerpt, in translation, from one of their conversations just before Senora De Peron left Italy:

Eva: "I want to make a donation to the families of the victims in that munitions-ship explosion here; you know?"

Peron: "Yes—all right. Do whatever you like about that."

Eva: "Listen, I'm worried."

Peron: "Why?"

Eva: "About going to France. They tell me it isn't safe."

Peron: "No, no—don't worry. Everything has been taken care of."

Eva: "But everyone here advises me against it. They say it would be very dangerous. I don't know. . . ."

Peron: "I tell you everything has been arranged. I have been assured personally. It's perfectly all right; you can go ahead."

Eva: "Well, then. . . . listen, how are matters there? Is everything going well?"

Peron: "Yes, of course. Everything's fine."

Eva: "You are deceiving me! You keep saying that everything is fine, but here they tell me that things are going very badly. You are deceiving me!"

Peron: "No. no! I am not deceiving you about anything. Don't let yourself be upset by stupid rumors without foundation. I am telling you the truth. Everything is all right."

Eva: "Well, I hope so. I have been very worried. . . ."

Senora Peron had reason to be worried. The Argentine military have been watching her husband carefully, have even been tapping his phone.

Summary On Marshall

With General Marshall now in office six months, it is fair to summarize his abilities in the all-important, highly complicated job of secretary of state.

One fear expressed at the time of Marshall's appointment was that he might run the State Department as a military organization; forget that he was a diplomat, not a soldier. Military men are accustomed to giving orders and having them carried out; a diplomat cannot give orders to a foreign country.

This fear has proved entirely unjustified. Marshall has leaned over backward to be a civilian; has run his department on a civilian basis. There can be no criticism of him on this score.

Chief criticism of Marshall is that he has lacked confidence in himself, therefore has moved too cautiously. Unfortunately he had to take over a field in which—except for a brief experience in China—he was absolutely green. He had spent his life studying warlike matters; suddenly he was shifted to the problems of peace.

Therefore, Marshall has not moved with the same surefootedness as Jimmie Byrnes.

Pastmaster Byrnes

Byrnes was a pastmaster at negotiation. And his many jousts with Molotov at Moscow, London, Paris and New York had given him an instinctive feel for foreign affairs. He did not have to lean on his advisers. He led and they followed.

To some extent Marshall has had to reverse this. He has had to learn the ropes all over again, could not entirely pick things up where Byrnes left off, has had to lean heavily on advisers, and has lacked the experience to be able to challenge their decisions. Sometimes the results have been excellent—as in the Marshall Plan, where Marshall leaned heavily on able George Kennan and was wise enough to adopt his recommendations.

But the results have not been good in Argentina and Latin America, where the new Secretary of State has leaned on other advisers.

Greatest setback the State Department has suffered is the exodus of top, trained personnel. Here, the turnover has been so rapid that the oldest assistant secretary of State, in point of service, now is William Benton, in charge of propaganda and cultural relations, in office less than two years.

Time Is So Precious

As a military man, Marshall knows the difficulty of leading troops in battle with green officers. Today his Department of State is trying to win the battle of peace with some of the older and best-trained officers retired from the battlefield. The exit of Dean Acheson as under secretary of state, for instance, leaves a hole which cannot soon, if ever, be filled by Wall Street Banker Bob Lovett, charming and likeable as he is.

Training new men takes time. Training a new secretary of state also takes time. And time today in the battle of peace is just as important as in the campaign of war—just as important as the split seconds between an artillery barrage and an infantry charge; or the crucial days wasted while supply trains bring up ammunition.

Thus the time lost between the exit of Jimmie Byrnes and the education of George Marshall may have its effect on history three or ten years hence.

Capital Chaff

When Tanforan, Calif., racetrack officials protested they lost money, alert Judge Dal M. Lemmon quickly read a report from the California racing commission showing Tanforan grossed $4,491,000 during the 40-day-spring meet. They were jailed for violating veterans' housing preferences. . . . It wasn't reported in the papers, but another "shooting incident" took place in the capitol—this one about 3 a. m. A sharp retort echoed through the still, marble corridors, coming from the direction of a public rest room. Jumpy capitol police, remembering Senator Bricker's recent encounter with a gunman, rushed to the scene with drawn pistols. Inside, they found a flustered visitor struggling with a screen. With a loud bang, he had kicked it to the floor.

The Right To Be Let Alone Most Valued By Civilized Men

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Do you carry a rabbit's foot or a lucky charm in your pocket? If you do, don't let those busybodies in Washington know about it. The reformers of everyone, except themselves, are on the loose.

A Federal judge out in Oregon, Hon. Claude McColloch, says: "I know many people who wear charms, including some who carry the lowly potatoe to keep disease away, and I had always thought they had the right to do so."

Charms, amulets, totem poles, and horseshoes have given a sense of security and peace of mind to many millions throughout all the ages. Baseball players have various gadgets to chase the jinx away. Prize fighters and jockeys wear their lucky colors. Some women believe certain ring stones will bring them love and find them husbands. The ancient Danes fought only when the raven on their battle flag looked skyward. And millions of devout people feel safer when they wear religious symbols.

Thoughts of Many Students

Many students of the subject think booms and "busts," good times and hard, depend on whether a spirit of optimism or pessimism prevails. Some believe that the changing radiation of the sun due to sun-spots determine these alternate moods of mankind.

Whether any of these things are so is beyond my ken. But when the meddlesome Matties in Washington raid the home of an American citizen to confiscate some good-luck gadget which is perfectly harmless to man or beast, Judge McColloch and I hold that the snoopers should be told off.

In this case, a man named Olsen, of full age and sound mind, had paid for and brought into his home an apparatus which he thought would prevent or cure disease by flooding his room with various colors. I pause to ask whether dancers feel happier and gayer when various lights flood the dance hall? And haven't you felt some wholesome magic in the autumn when the very air seems golden beneath the bronze and scarlet leaves?

I'm not defending Mr. Olsen's gadget, but I do defend his right to have it as long as he thinks it does him good. A very wise man, Justice Brandeis, once said that the men who wrote our Constitution "conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone—the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men."

Ruled Against U. S.

Judge McColloch ruled in favor of citizen Olson and against the United States of America which taxes you to pay the salaries of its meddlesome Matties. He ordered the U. S. Marshal to return the gadget to Olsen. The judge said:

"To me, the wisdom of the ages means nothing if this humble citizen can be compelled, against his will, to yield access to his home to Federal officers to take from him and destroy a mechanical object, perfectly harmless in itself, which he thinks (whether rightly or wrongly makes no difference) is beneficial to him. My conception of the meaning of the Fourth Amendment is, that the citizen alone can unlock the doors of his dwelling except in the rarest cases, and this is not one of the exceptions. Coke is credited with the maxim that 'An Englishman's home is his castle'. . . I cannot resist adding the imperishable words by Chatham, of a later English generation:

"'The poorest man may, in his cottage, bid defiance to all the forces of the Crown. It may be frail; its roof may shake; the wind may blow through it; the storm may enter; the rain may enter; but the King of England may not enter; all his forces dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement.'

"Many years, generations now, have been devoted to demonstrating that man is often his own best doctor . . . It would be but stirring old waters, long calm, to review the successful struggle of healing groups and faiths, unconventional in their time, by majority standards . . . Without intending to give offense, I think no such proposition of paternal right in the field of public health has been advanced in modern times . . . I have preferred to meet head-on and to discuss the questions of security of one's dwelling and of personal liberty, which I regard as the true issues in this case. I have done this because I gained the impression during the war, and the impression has been strengthened since hostilities ended, that it is time for Federal judges to dust off the constitution."

Congress Reason For Becoming Technical, Legalistic Shown

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — Whoever has any lingering doubts as to why Congress had to be technical and even legalistic in writing the Taft-Hartley law will have many of such doubts removed by reading an opinion just handed down by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Judicial Circuit by Judges Swan, Augustus Hand and Frank.

In this case, Clark Brothers, Inc., of Olean, N. Y., had a controversy over whether the CIO or an independent union should represent the employes. Even though the independent union has twice won out in elections and the issue has become superfluous now, the court insisted on making a ruling.

The controversy centered on two charges—one that the company's industrial relations director engaged in "surveillance" and the other that the employer, even though delivering a speech admittedly of an "unexceptionable" character, compelled the employes to listen during working hours.

What The Court Said

In respect to the first charge, the three-judge court says:

"The charge of surveillance is based on two visits by the respondent's industrial relations director to a saloon frequented by some of the employes for the purpose of overhearing what they were saying about the election to be held on January 19, 1945. What he heard did not result in any action being taken against any employe nor in any interference by the respondent (the company) in that election; it does not even appear that any employe knew that his remarks had been overheard."

Up to this point, the reader will assume that if no intimidation occurred and nobody, not even the employes sitting in a public place, were aware of the presence of the company's industrial relations director, then certainly the incident was irrelevant.

But the three-judge court added: "Petty as the incident is, we think we must sustain the finding of surveillance. A ruling that an employer was privileged to engage in intentional eavesdropping would be likely to deter free discussion by employes of self-organizational matters."

This is but another way of saying that this three-judge court considers itself obligated to write a law or promulgate legislation which the Congress did not adopt. Thus, the three-judge court feels it must issue rulings to prohibit industrial relations directors from exercising their rights as citizens to enter public places and to patronize the same as they please and must keep away from any saloons or eating places or drugstores or street corners or any public place where employes might incidentally be discussing "self-organizational matters."

The next point is an even more flagrant case of legislation by judges. It relates to the action of the company president in making known to his employes during working hours his views on unionization. The three-judge court says:

"An employer has an interest in presenting his views on labor relations to his employes. We should hesitate to hold that he may not do this on company time and pay, provided a similar opportunity to address them were accorded representatives of a union. . . . In these circumstances we believe the board was justified in finding that the respondent's conduct was coercive and an interference with the employe's right to self-organization, despite the generally unexceptionable character of the president's remarks."

Congress Wrote No Such Rule

Here we have a three-judge court promulgating an amendment to the Wagner Act, which had said nothing at all about an employer's discussion with his employes during working hours. In that amendment, arbitrarily proclaimed, the court undertakes to say that hereafter it is all right for employers to address their employes but the representative of a union also has the right to discuss the matter at that same time and place. Congress wrote no such rule in the Wagner law but this three-judge court—and it is no exception—has followed the new deal practice of judicial amendments to the laws of Congress.

The Taft-Hartley law has endeavored to correct the tieing up of an employer's speech with other unfair labor practice charges, and it may be that Congress hasn't gone far enough to protect the right of communication between an employer and his employes. The new law says that "the expressing of any views, arguments, or opinion, or the dissemination thereof . . . shall not constitute or be evidence of an unfair labor practice under any of the provisions of this act if such expression contains no threat of reprisal or force or promise of benefit."

In the Clark case, the mere expression by the employer of his views was tied in with another alleged "unfair labor practice" and called "coercion." As long as New Deal judges sit on the bench and legislate, Congress will have to grow more instead of less legalistic in safeguarding the right of free speech.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

TOO MUCH POLITICS

A VERY wise man who has seen the march of event for more years than most of us recently complained that there was too much politics in the air. This generation is obsessed by politics. In some countries, such as Italy and France, politics absorbs the energies of the people. Art has flown into hiding; music has become a shrill cacophony; even production in industry has given way before the endless talk about government. As for morals, ethics, philosophy, they have disappeared altogether before the belligerent shout of the politician and the propagandistic lies of those who have seized power.

Even in our own country, politics holds the front page of newspapers and the staccato of the commentators. Unusual as it seems, the Broadway columnists, children of fashion, who used to be amusing with their tales of wickedness and their emphasis upon the grotesque, have gone political and vie with each other in political prophecy. Even the vaudevillians, who are hired to amuse the public on the radio, punctuate their repetitive humor with political gags and slanted comment on the events of the day.

If this trend continues, we shall have umpires at baseball games shouting, "Veto!" instead of "Strike!"

The reason for this concentration on a single subject is obvious: it is that everywhere government has expanded and increased its power; that government has invaded the home, the church, the school, the college and university, the mill and factory, the farm. No man is free from government. Banks are owned or controlled by government. In many countries, the food of the people is distributed on minimum rations by government officials who decide for themselves not only what one is to eat but who is to eat. Even here in the United States, high food prices are due to government buying for foreign accounts.

UNRRA not only fed millions with American food, which became a gift from government to government, but their governments sold the food to their own people and in some instances, only to those who were politically on the right side.

When more than 35 cents of every earned dollar is taken from the individual by his government, the man who is deprived of the possibility of saving becomes politically conscious. He wonders why his government needs so much. When he discovers, as so many farmers did, that after the government has deprived him of his own earned money, it hands him a subsidy, he wonders what corruption is in the air. When he sees that his government refuses to reduce his tax by one penny but lays plans to spend $20,000,000,000 over a four-year period in Europe and Asia and that a vast propaganda machine has been let loose upon him to confuse and deceive him into believing that the only way to save his economy is to throw good money after bad, he grows suspicious and becomes political. He wants to know what's cooking.

That is why we are so preoccupied with the mere business of government. And it is interesting that during the past decade nothing noteworthy has appeared in art, in music, in poetry, in the novel, in philosophy. It is all journalistic. It is all of the moment. It is like the frightening noise I listened to at the Berkshire Festival when Copland vied with Stravinsky in the use of the instruments of music to produce the maximum of noise that the human ear can tolerate.

But worse even than that is the absence of standards, of the urbanities of living, of the cultivation of truth, of the resistance to the lie. Politics has driven decency out of our lives as bad money drives out good money. Picayune men, such as never before led a people, emerge as celebrities on ghost-written speeches and publicity-agented fame.

It is such an era and therefore politics absorbs the human mind and interest. Millions of women each year attend political lectures in thousands of clubs and forums who could, if they only would, devote themselves to the improvement of the mind and character of the next generation. It is a way of life—but not a good way of life.

Police Report Clubs Are Found Observing Sunday Ban

That the law prohibiting the sale of alcoholic drinks in clubs of fraternal, civic and veterans' organizations on Sunday is apparently being observed, as disclosed after a survey by the Cumberland Police Department over the weekend, no doubt brought a feeling of satisfaction to a vast majority of our citizens.

The police investigation took three hours and covered thirty local "Clubs" holding liquor licenses. It followed a check made Friday night on the same Clubs to determine if gaming devices were being maintained.

The two officers who made the investigations Sunday reported they found only four Clubs open at the time of the inspection, but they made spot checks later to "satisfy" department heads that the Clubs had not closed for a brief period.

There are those, of course, who will claim, and others will, no doubt, nurse the same thought, that such an inspection, especially when made by only two officers, over such a long space of time, could not be effective, because after the first Clubs had been visited, and after the officers had left, those inspected could quickly advise others that the investigation was on. If such were true it would permit plenty of time for the unvisited Clubs to clear their decks of any evidence of violations.

Certainly, such a possibility does exist, and probably future investigations could be made more convincing to the skeptics if a greater number of Clubs could be visited simultaneously. Police manpower, of course, enters into such an elaborate undertaking, and the danger of word getting out that an investigation was about to be launched would be increased with so many officers involved. But heads of police departments elsewhere have ways of preventing "leaks" when simultaneous inspections or raids, as the case might be, are scheduled. Manpower need not be a problem in carrying out such operations. Officers off duty could be used for an hour or two to augment the number of men available from the "shift" on duty.

But we like to believe that those responsible for the operation of Clubs holding liquor and beer licenses realize the risk they will take of losing those privileges if they permit the law to be violated, and that they will see to it that their bars are closed to all comers on the Sabbath.

We also like to believe the Police Department is making a sincere effort to see that the law is being adhered to, and that slot machines are being banished for all time. Proof of that sincerity can not but stimulate greater confidence of the people of the city in the police officers and those directing their activities.

Allegany County Singularly Honored With Two "Beauties"

Seldom, if ever, has one county in Maryland been so fortunate as to have two beauty contestants adjudged the winners over a field as large as the one that competed for the title of "Miss Maryland," but that was the honor that came to Allegany county Monday night when Miss Jean Dixon, as "Miss Cumberland," was selected the top beauty of the State, and Miss Betty Lou Rankin, as "Miss Lonaconing," was chosen as second in line.

If we are to accept the score cards of the judges as a basis, and we do, it was a close contest between all eight of those aspiring for the" Miss Maryland" title, which, in itself, brings glory enough to all. The contest between the Cumberland and Lonaconing contestants was, apparently, especially close, with the result see-sawing back and forth as the various appearances of the young ladies unfolded before the critical eyes of the judges.

This fact can best be appreciated when it is noted that the evening gown competition found "Miss Cumberland" second, and "Miss Lonaconing" failing to get into the first three rank. "Miss Lonaconing" overcame this initial handicap during the talent competition, while "Miss Cumberland" made more certain her selection as the top winner when she finished second in this event. The final competition—that of appearance in bathing suits—clinched the honor for "Miss Cumberland" when she was scored "first."

Cumberland, to be certain, is happy over the result, while Lonaconing must have experienced a feeling of great pride in the knowledge its "favorite daughter" had won such high honors. But, neither city was any happier than The Cumberland News that such honors had come to them.

To be sure, we cannot be among the first to congratulate each of them on their accomplishment, but we do want to extend it, and to hope Miss Jean Dixon, first as "Miss Cumberland," and now as "Miss Maryland," will realize her ambition to pursue her higher education program by coming through with the title of "Miss America" at Atlantic City.

Wouldn't it be great if we knew that all our public officials were 100 per cent Americans.

Misinformed

Former U. S. Chamber of Commerce President Eric Johnston is back from Europe and his comments on the international scene have been realistic and penetrating.

One of the things that impressed him most was the immense amount of misinformation on the United States prevailing even among cabinet ministers. Most Europeans, he said, "knew" that America would soon have an economic crash which would make the 1929 depression look like the good old days. Hence this country couldn't keep its promises to aid Europe.

Many intelligent Europeans told him they weren't "fooled" by the tale that many American workmen own automobiles. Those pictures of cars parked outside factories, they said, were obviously faked!

Such a fund of misinformation is plainly a barrier to America's world influence.

There is a need for "cultural exchange"—like sending American students to Norway and bringing Norwegian students here for a year's schooling. It might not be a bad idea to exchange factory workers, too. Since seeing is believing, that is probably the only way to spread the knowledge of the American system which is needed to counter Russian propaganda.

INSECT CONTROL MEASURES

FEMALE mosquitoes feed on warmblooded animals and most of us do not like it at all when we are victims. Biting and removing a little blood is bad enough, but when they leave a disease in return, we are ready to fight back.

How do mosquitoes know that we are in the neighborhood, sitting about peacefully waiting to be bitten? After all, there must be some attraction which sends them from their homes and loved ones to their prey. It cannot be chance because the buzzers are able to find a human being no matter how careful he is to hide himself. A few scientists from Jerusalem did some research on the problem and decided that we exhale certain substances which exert an attraction. The expired material is carried everywhere by mild air current which help direct the insects to the source.

But this is only part of the work that is being done in an attempt to control our number one enemies. For many years, oil of citronella could be found in every household. When smeared on the body, it was supposed to afford protection against mosquitoes and other pests. Apparently insects found the odor unattractive and flew elsewhere for their food.

But the preparation was far from ideal and many chemical laboratories went into action to discover a more perfect repellent. Hundreds of compounds were studied but only a few appeared to meet all of the requirements. The atmospheric environment played a part; many were effective for only a short period of time. Others irritated the skin after many applications. Sometimes the chemical was affected by perspiration and the majority were soluble in water. Odor and storage properties were other factors. At the present time there are several new repellents—some on the market and others not yet available.

The trend nowadays is to attack insects in their egg or larvel stages. This has worked out well with mosquitoes especially in areas where they were abundant and of the type that transmitted malaria. The use of larvicides has been added to swamp drainage, spraying oil on water, screens and mosquito netting. A combination of DDT and fuel oil may be sprayed in the form of a mist and the airplane has proved useful in covering large areas.

The destruction of fly larvae calls for somewhat different methods as the maggots do not live in water but in barns, stables, alleys, and dumps. DDT is not effective against embryo insects but if applied to breeding places, will eliminate the adults as they emerge. In one investigation of the value of DDT combined with solvents as larvicides, the solvent alone sometimes proved more effective. This means that research must continue until a successful chemical mixture is formulated.

Meanwhile the business man, farmer, and householder can do his share in fly control by proper garbage and manure disposal, the use of sanitary privies, and the employment of incinerators rather than rumps.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

A motion was made in Congress to start a nation-wide lottery to help reduce taxes and pay off the national debt. If the government starts collecting money through games of chance, there will be a lot of changes in the national capital. Yes sir, Washington is liable to put Reno off the map as a place to make a quick dollar.

When they talk of "Rules of the House" they won't be referring to legislative regulations in the House of Representatives. They will mean you can't cash in your chips until the place closes. And bookies will assume a new stature in American life. They will become known as "the men who got the nation back on its feet." In fact, I wouldn't be surprised if they judge the next President not by his political abilities, but by how fast he pays off.

The Government will be getting money in all sorts of ways. When you get on a bus, the driver won't hand you a transfer. You will drop your dime in a pari-mutuel machine and the card will quote the odds against your getting a seat. Even the movie houses will become a big source of income to the nation. Just picture those pretty usherettes with their tight blouses, short skirts and green eyeshades.

But if the Government adopts this idea, a winning ticket here in America may have repercussions around the world. I can see a horse coming around the far turn now and as he thunders into the stretch he yells to the next horse "out of my way—please. If I don't win this race, Afghanistan won't get its loan."

Senora Peron Phoned Husband Nightly From Europe; Was Worried Over Rumors of Danger For Her in France; Political Menace To Him in Argentina

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — Vivacious, sensational Sra. Eva Duarte De Peron, wife of the Argentine President, now has received decorations from Dictator Franco and Pope Pius XII, and has toured the capitals of many European countries.

During her tour, she conversed nightly by trans-Atlantic telephone with her husband in Buenos Aires. Apparently she was worried about Peron's political situation. In order to ensure maximum privacy for these talks, Argentine communications officials used a special high-frequency, ultrashortwave radio-telephone circuit. Despite these precautions, the Merry-Go-Round herewith presents a verbatim excerpt, in translation, from one of their conversations just before Senora De Peron left Italy:

Eva: "I want to make a donation to the families of the victims in that munitions-ship explosion here; you know?"

Peron: "Yes—all right. Do whatever you like about that."

Eva: "Listen, I'm worried."

Peron: "Why?"

Eva: "About going to France. They tell me it isn't safe."

Peron: "No, no—don't worry. Everything has been taken care of."

Eva: "But everyone here advises me against it. They say it would be very dangerous. I don't know. . . ."

Peron: "I tell you everything has been arranged. I have been assured personally. It's perfectly all right; you can go ahead."

Eva: "Well, then. . . . listen, how are matters there? Is everything going well?"

Peron: "Yes, of course. Everything's fine."

Eva: "You are deceiving me! You keep saying that everything is fine, but here they tell me that things are going very badly. You are deceiving me!"

Peron: "No, no! I am not deceiving you about anything. Don't let yourself be upset by stupid rumors without foundation. I am telling you the truth. Everything is all right."

Eva: "Well, I hope so. I have been very worried. . . ."

Senora Peron had reason to be worried. The Argentine military have been watching her husband carefully, have even been tapping his phone.

Summary On Marshall

With General Marshall now in office six months, it is fair to summarize his abilities in the all-important, highly complicated job of secretary of state.

One fear expressed at the time of Marshall's appointment was that he might run the State Department as a military organization; forget that he was a diplomat, not a soldier. Military men are accustomed to giving orders and having them carried out; a diplomat cannot give orders to a foreign country.

This fear has proved entirely unjustified. Marshall has leaned over backward to be a civilian; has run his department on a civilian basis. There can be no criticism of him on this score.

Chief criticism of Marshall is that he has lacked confidence in himself, therefore has moved too cautiously. Unfortunately he had to take over a field in which—except for a brief experience in China—he was absolutely green. He had spent his life studying warlike matters; suddenly he was shifted to the problems of peace.

Therefore, Marshall has not moved with the same surefootedness as Jimmie Byrnes.

Pastmaster Byrnes

Byrnes was a pastmaster at negotiation. And his many jousts with Molotov at Moscow, London, Paris and New York had given him an instinctive feel for foreign affairs. He did not have to lean on his advisers. He led and they followed.

To some extent Marshall has had to reverse this. He has had to learn the ropes all over again, could not entirely pick things up where Byrnes left off, has had to lean heavily on advisers, and has lacked the experience to be able to challenge their decisions. Sometimes the results have been excellent—as in the Marshall Plan, where Marshall leaned heavily on able George Kennan and was wise enough to adopt his recommendations.

But the results have not been good in Argentina and Latin America, where the new Secretary of State has leaned on other advisers.

Greatest setback the State Department has suffered is the exodus of top, trained personnel. Here, the turnover has been so rapid that the oldest assistant secretary of State, in point of service, now is William Benton, in charge of propaganda and cultural relations, in office less than two years.

Time Is So Precious

As a military man, Marshall knows the difficulty of leading troops in battle with green officers. Today his Department of State is trying to win the battle of peace with some of the older and best-trained officers retired from the battlefield. The exit of Dean Acheson as under secretary of state, for instance, leaves a hole which cannot soon, if ever, be filled by Wall Street Banker Bob Lovett, charming and likeable as he is.

Training new men takes time. Training a new secretary of state also takes time. And time today in the battle of peace is just as important as in the campaign of war—just as important as the split seconds between an artillery barrage and an infantry charge; or the crucial days wasted while supply trains bring up ammunition.

Thus the time lost between the exit of Jimmie Byrnes and the education of George Marshall may have its effect on history three or ten years hence.

Capital Chaff

When Tanforan, Calif., racetrack officials protested they lost money, alert Judge Dal M. Lemmon quickly read a report from the California racing commission showing Tanforan grossed $4,491,000 during the 40-day spring meet. They were jailed for violating veterans' housing preferences. . . . It wasn't reported in the papers, but another "shooting incident" took place in the capitol—this one about 3 a. m. A sharp retort echoed through the still, marble corridors, coming from the direction of a public rest room. Jumpy capitol police, remembering Senator Bricker's recent encounter with a gunman, rushed to the scene with drawn pistols. Inside, they found a flustered visitor struggling with a screen. With a loud bang, he had kicked it to the floor.

The Right To Be Let Alone Most Valued By Civilized Men

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Do you carry a rabbit's foot or a lucky charm in your pocket? If you do, don't let those busybodies in Washington know about it. The reformers of everyone, except themselves, are on the loose.

A Federal judge out in Oregon, Hon. Claude McColloch, says: "I know many people who wear charms, including some who carry the lowly potatoe to keep disease away, and I had always thought they had the right to do so."

Charms, amulets, totem poles, and horseshoes have given a sense of security and peace of mind to many millions throughout all the ages. Baseball players have various gadgets to chase the jinx away. Prize fighters and jockeys wear their lucky colors. Some women believe certain ring stones will bring them love and find them husbands. The ancient Danes fought only when the raven on their battle flag looked skyward. And millions of devout people feel safer when they wear religious symbols.

Thoughts of Many Students

Many students of the subject think booms and "busts," good times and hard, depend on whether a spirit of optimism or pessimism prevails. Some believe that the changing radiation of the sun due to sun-spots determine these alternate moods of mankind.

Whether any of these things are so is beyond my ken. But, when the meddlesome Matties in Washington raid the home of an American citizen to confiscate some good-luck gadget which is perfectly harmless to man or beast, Judge McColloch and I hold that the snoopers should be told off.

In this case, a man named Olsen, of full age and sound mind, had paid for and brought into his home an apparatus which he thought would prevent or cure disease by flooding his room with various colors. I pause to ask whether dancers feel happier and gayer when various lights flood the dance hall? And haven't you felt some wholesome magic in the autumn when the very air seems golden beneath the bronze and scarlet leaves?

I'm not defending Mr. Olsen's gadget, but I do defend his right to have it as long as he thinks it does him good. A very wise man, Justice Brandeis, once said that the men who wrote our Constitution "conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone—the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men."

Ruled Against U. S.

Judge McColloch ruled in favor of citizen Olson and against the United States of America which taxes you to pay the salaries of its meddlesome Matties. He ordered the U. S. Marshal to return the gadget to Olsen. The judge said:

"To me, the wisdom of the ages means nothing if this humble citizen can be compelled, against his will, to yield access to his home to Federal officers to take from him and destroy a mechanical object, perfectly harmless in itself, which he thinks (whether rightly or wrongly makes no difference) is beneficial to him. My conception of the meaning of the Fourth Amendment is, that the citizen alone can unlock the doors of his dwelling except in the rarest cases, and this is not one of the exceptions. Coke is credited with the maxim that 'An Englishman's home is his castle'. . . I cannot resist adding the imperishable words by Chatham, of a later English generation:

"The poorest man may, in his cottage, bid defiance to all the forces of the Crown. It may be frail; its roof may shake; the wind may blow through it; the storm may enter; the rain may enter; but the King of England may not enter; all his forces dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement.'

"Many years, generations now, have been devoted to demonstrating that man is often his own best doctor . . . It would be but stirring old waters, long calm, to review the successful struggle of healing groups and faiths, unconventional in their time, by majority standards . . . Without intending to give offense, I think no such proposition of paternal right in the field of public health has been advanced in modern times . . . I have preferred to meet head-on and to discuss the questions of security of one's dwelling and of personal liberty, which I regard as the true issues in this case. I have done this because I gained the impression during the war, and the impression has been strengthened since hostilities ended, that it is time for Federal judges to dust off the constitution."

Congress Reason For Becoming Technical, Legalistic Shown

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 — Whoever has any lingering doubts as to why Congress had to be technical and even legalistic in writing the Taft-Hartley law will have many of such doubts removed by reading an opinion just handed down by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Judicial Circuit by Judges Swan, Augustus Hand and Frank.

In this case, Clark Brothers, Inc., of Olean, N. Y., had a controversy over whether the CIO or an independent union should represent the employes. Even though the independent union has twice won out in elections and the issue has become superfluous now, the court insisted on making a ruling.

The controversy centered on two charges—one that the company's industrial relations director engaged in "surveillance" and the other that the employer, even though delivering a speech admittedly of an "unexceptionable" character, compelled the employes to listen during working hours.

What The Court Said

In respect to the first charge, the three-judge court says:

"The charge of surveillance is based on two visits by the respondent's industrial relations director to a saloon frequented by some of the employes for the purpose of overhearing what they were saying about the election to be held on January 19, 1945. What he heard did not result in any action being taken against any employe nor in any interference by the respondent (the company) in that election; it does not even appear that any employe knew that his remarks had been overheard."

Up to this point, the reader will assume that if no intimidation occurred and nobody, not even the employes sitting in a public place, were aware of the presence of the company's industrial relations director, then certainly the incident was irrelevant.

But the three-judge court added: "Petty as the incident is, we think we must sustain the finding of surveillance. A ruling that an employer was privileged to engage in intentional eavesdropping would be likely to deter free discussion by employes of self-organizational matters."

This is but another way of saying that this three-judge court considers itself obligated to write a law or promulgate legislation which the Congress did not adopt. Thus, the three-judge court feels it must issue rulings to prohibit industrial relations directors from exercising their rights as citizens to enter public places and to patronize the same as they please and must keep away from any saloons or eating places or drugstores or street corners or any public place where employes might incidentally be discussing "self-organizational matters."

The next point is an even more flagrant case of legislation by judges. It relates to the action of the company president in making known to his employes during working hours his views on unionization. The three-judge court says:

"An employer has an interest in presenting his views on labor relations to his employes. We should hesitate to hold that he may not do this on company time and pay, provided a similar opportunity to address them were accorded representatives of a union. . . . In these circumstances we believe the board was justified in finding that the respondent's conduct was coercive and an interference with the employe's right to self-organization, despite the generally unexceptionable character of the president's remarks."

Congress Wrote No Such Rule

Here we have a three-judge court promulgating an amendment to the Wagner Act, which had said nothing at all about an employer's discussion with his employes during working hours. In that amendment, arbitrarily proclaimed, the court undertakes to say that hereafter it is all right for employers to address their employes but the representative of a union also has the right to discuss the matter at that same time and place. Congress wrote no such rule in the Wagner law but this three-judge court—and it is no exception—has followed the new deal practice of judicial amendments to the laws of Congress.

The Taft-Hartley law has endeavored to correct the tieing up of an employer's speech with other unfair labor practice charges, and it may be that Congress hasn't gone far enough to protect the right of communication between an employer and his employes. The new law says that "the expressing of any views, arguments, or opinion, or the dissemination thereof . . . shall not constitute or be evidence of an unfair labor practice under any of the provisions of this act if such expression contains no threat of reprisal or force or promise of benefit."

In the Clark case, the mere expression by the employer of his views was tied in with another alleged "unfair labor practice" and called "coercion." As long as New Deal judges sit on the bench and legislate, Congress will have to grow more instead of less legalistic in safeguarding the right of free speech.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

TOO MUCH POLITICS

A VERY wise man who has seen the march of event for more years than most of us recently complained that there was too much politics in the air. This generation is obsessed by politics. In some countries, such as Italy and France, politics absorbs the energies of the people. Art has flown into hiding; music has become a shrill cacophony; even production in industry has given way before the endless talk about government. As for morals, ethics, philosophy, they have disappeared altogether before the belligerent shout of the politician and the propagandistic lies of those who have seized power.

Even in our own country, politics holds the front page of newspapers and the staccato of the commentators. Unusual as it seems, the Broadway columnists, children of fashion, who used to be amusing with their tales of wickedness and their emphasis upon the grotesque, have gone political and vie with each other in political prophecy. Even the vaudevillians, who are hired to amuse the public on the radio, punctuate their repetitive humor with political gags and slanted comment on the events of the day.

If this trend continues, we shall have umpires at baseball games shouting, "Veto!" instead of "Strike!"

The reason for this concentration on a single subject is obvious: it is that everywhere government has expanded and increased its power; that government has invaded the home, the church, the school, the college and university, the mill and factory, the farm. No man is free from government. Banks are owned or controlled by government. In many countries, the food of the people is distributed on minimum rations by government officials who decide for themselves not only what one is to eat but who is to eat. Even here in the United States, high food prices are due to government buying for foreign accounts.

UNRRA not only fed millions with American food, which became a gift from government to government, but their governments sold the food to their own people and in some instances, only to those who were politically on the right side.

When more than 35 cents of every earned dollar is taken from the individual by his government, the man who is deprived of the possibility of saving becomes politically conscious. He wonders why his government needs so much. When he discovers, as so many farmers did, that after the government has deprived him of his own earned money, it hands him a subsidy, he wonders what corruption is in the air. When he sees that his government refuses to reduce his tax by one penny but lays plans to spend $20,000,000,000 over a four-year period in Europe and Asia and that a vast propaganda machine has been let loose upon him to confuse and deceive him into believing that the only way to save his economy is to throw good money after bad, he grows suspicious and becomes political. He wants to know what's cooking.

That is why we are so preoccupied with the mere business of government. And it is interesting that during the past decade nothing noteworthy has appeared in art, in music, in poetry, in the novel, in philosophy. It is all journalistic. It is all of the moment. It is like the frightening noise I listened to at the Berkshire Festival when Copland vied with Stravinsky in the use of the instruments of music to produce the maximum of noise that the human ear can tolerate.

But worse even than that is the absence of standards, of the urbanities of living, of the cultivation of truth, of the resistance to the lie. Politics has driven decency out of our lives as bad money drives out good money. Picayune men, such as never before led a people, emerge as celebrities on ghost-written speeches and publicity-agented fame.

It is such an era and therefore politics absorbs the human mind and interest. Millions of women each year attend political lectures in thousands of clubs and forums who could, if they only would, devote themselves to the improvement of the mind and character of the next generation. It is a way of life—but not a good way of life.

JOBSEEKERS INCREASE IN AREA DURING JULY

Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the Maryland Employment office here, stated yesterday that 127 new applications for jobs were filed by veterans with 111 being placed, including eight handicapped ex-servicemen.

The number of veterans seeking work dropped from 1,483 in June to 1,296 in July. Besides this group, there were 2,414 job-applicants with 423 filing for the first time. Ninety-six women were placed in jobs and 43 men received employment.

Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board office here, reported that claims for unemployment compensation and GI readjustment allowances showed an increase in July over the previous month.

Kenney said that 499 new claims were filed in July while the June claims numbered 347. In July there were 4,679 GI readjustment allowances handled and in June claims totalled 3,915.

The total number of claims, both state and GI, were 8,617 in July, 7,858 in June and 7,103 in May. Kenney attributed some of the increase to ex-servicemen home on vacation from college and other schools.

Ten Men Accepted By Naval Reserve

Surface Division 5-9, United States Naval Reserve, has accepted 10 men of this area for membership, Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick announced yesterday. They are:

JOBSEEKERS INCREASE IN AREA DURING JULY

Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the Maryland Employment office here, stated yesterday that 127 new applications for jobs were filed by veterans with 111 being placed, including eight handicapped ex-servicemen.

The number of veterans seeking work dropped from 1,483 in June to 1,296 in July. Besides this group, there were 2,414 job-applicants with 423 filing for the first time. Ninety-six women were placed in jobs and 43 men received employment.

Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board office here, reported that claims for unemployment compensation and GI readjustment allowances showed an increase in July over the previous month.

Kenney said that 499 new claims were filed in July while the June claims numbered 347. In July there were 4,679 GI readjustment allowances handled and in June claims totalled 3,915.

The total number of claims, both state and GI, were 8,617 in July, 7,858 in June and 7,103 in May. Kenney attributed some of the increase to ex-servicemen home on vacation from college and other schools.

Bathing Beauty Contest Planned By Homemakers

Will Be Held At Celanese Pool

A bathing beauty contest will be the main feature of the basket picnic to be held Thursday, August 7, by members of the Cresap and Potomac Valley Homemakers Clubs at the Celanese Pool.

The picnic will be held following the regular meeting of the Cresap Club at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Participants in the beauty contest will be attired in various types of beach apparel representing different periods since the Gay Nineties.

Prizes will be awarded for the prettiest, funniest and most original costumes. The picnic supper will be served at 5 o'clock. Members of both clubs and their families will be guests.

An entertainment program consisting of games, sports and group singing will be prepared. The affair is under the direction of Mrs. Edward Lewis, chairman of recreation for the Cresap Homemakers Club.

Lester Smith Weds Miss Helen Snyder

Miss Helen Marie Snyder, Boulevard Apartments, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Snyder, Augusta, W. Va., and Lester Louis Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, 227 Elder Street, were married Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Christian Church, Bedford Street.

Rev. B. Ralph Mark, pastor of Central Methodist Church, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Betty Snyder, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Sue Porter, Oakland, was bridesmaid. Oscar Price served as best man and Charles Lowery and James Pyles were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace and net gown, and her finger-tip veil was caught with a tiara of pearls. She carried a white Bible with a gardenia cover and marker. Her maid of honor wore a blue gown and the bridesmaid wore pink. Both gowns were cut similarly to the gown of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Romney High School and Catherman's Business School and is employed in the office of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. The bridegroom is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and is a veteran of World War II. He is employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the couple will reside in the Boulevard Apartments.

Fun For The Over-45s, Or, Nobody Needs To Be Lonely

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A great many letters are written to this column by middle-aged men and women who find themselves living an extremely restricted social life. In fact, the greater number of them describe themselves as being almost entirely without social life at all.

It is because of this great need for friends and companionship on the part of so many middle-aged people that, every time a letter is printed from a man or woman who complains of lonesomeness, my mail is flooded for some weeks thereafter with letters from the opposite sex asking to be put in touch with the writer of that letter. This happens even though I have frequently explained that names and addresses cannot be given out by this column.

For all these reasons, I am sure there will be many people interested in hearing of what one enterprising woman, living in a Long Island town, has decided to do about the matter.

This woman, who is in the "over-45" group, got thinking recently about how many men and women of her own age there were who lacked a satisfying social life. She therefore decided that she would organize a club to be known as the "45-Over Club," membership in which would be open only to people over the age specified. In order to make certain that only those sincerely anxious to make worthwhile friends would find their way into the club, the group has set up strict membership requirements, and, while the invitation is open to any whose age qualifies them for membership, all who apply must be willing to have themselves thoroughly investigated before their applications are accepted. This seems to me a very wise provision, since, in this way, all members will be assured what they will find in congenial companions.

The program planned for the club will consist of all sorts of seasonal activities, such as boat rides, picnics, and other outdoor events in summer; and card parties, dances and the like during the winter.

The woman who is heading the project on Long Island writes me that she will be glad to receive applications for membership in the group because, she says: "I feel there are a great many who would like to get started in just such a club. I know the loneliness a person alone can experience. That is what started my idea."

So any men or women living in the Long Island area, who would like to know how to make application for membership in this group, can write me and I will give them the necessary information.

This idea, however, certainly need not be restricted to any one area. There are lonely men and women in towns and cities all over the country, and there is no reason why some enterprising individuals should not get busy and start just such a club as this woman is launching.

So, wherever you are located, you middle-aged men and women who feel that you need more friends, I suggest that you take up this very excellent idea and get to work on setting in motion a movement of this kind in your own community. If you would like to get ideas from this woman director of the Long Island "45-Over Club," I will be glad to have you write to me, too, and I will tell you how to get in touch with her.

Let me repeat what I have said so often before: Nobody needs to be lonely. You can always do something about it. Here is one fine suggestion.

Three Building Permits Issued

Three building permits calling for $9,600 worth of construction have been secured at the office of the city engineer.

L. A. Runion, LaVale, and Attorney William H. Geppert, 952 Braddock Road, obtained a permit to build a five-room one and one-half story house on Lots 8 and 9, Brookfield Avenue. Runion and Geppert are listed as the builders as well as owners. The house will have a concrete block foundation, brick walls and a composition roof and will measure 28 by 21 feet.

It is reported that Runion and Geppert plan to erect five other homes in the same vicinity.

Robert E. Dougherty, 1211 Bedford Street, was granted a permit to build a two-story structure with a garage on the ground floor and an apartment above in the rear of 49 Schlund Avenue. It will be constructed on concrete block and will have an asphalt shingle roof. The 22 by 26-foot building will be erected by sub-contracts at an estimated cost of $2,000.

A third permit was granted Joseph R. Mantheiy, 1306 River Avenue, to build a one-story 16 by 16-foot addition to a store at the same address. The building will have concrete block foundation and walls and a built up roof. Cost is estimated at $100.

Schools Will Open Sept. 4 With Big Enrollment Slated

Allegany County public schools are slated to open Thursday, September 4, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel for the Board of Education, and enrollment for the fall term is expected to take another step toward approaching the 16,000 figure of the early 40's.

First grade enrollment is expected to be over 1,500 as compared to 1,450 last year, while in the high schools the number of ex-GI students is expected to take a sharp drop since most finished last year.

There is the possibility, however, that more students will remain in school instead of quitting to get work and if this takes place high school enrollment will more than hold its own.

Last year there was a total of 15,482 students in county schools, Ramey said. He pointed out that average attendance in Grades 7 ... 12 was 5,843 of which 757 were graduated. To make up for the loss about 1,200 will move up from the Sixth Grade. However, the difference between 1,200 and 757 does not represent the net gain as many students in school last year will not return.

State Police Seek Frostburg Intruder

State Police were still looking last night for an unidentified man who was fired on by an ex-state policeman as he fled through a field after entering Chuckles Bowling Alley at the foot of Welsh Hill on the outskirts of Frostburg early yesterday morning.

William "Chuckles" Keiling, operator of the place, spotted the intruder about 1 a. m. and notified authorities, but, apparently aware of his discovery, the man fled through a rear door and into a nearby field.

Harold C. Carl, former State Police sergeant and Frostburg photographer, fired a 12 gauge shotgun at the man as he fled, according to First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale barracks, but officers surmised that Carl was too far away from the man and that he escaped the blast. A two-hour search was futile.

Nothing was disturbed at the bowling alley by the intruder who apparently gained entrance through the door by which he escaped.

Funds Available For Construction Of Water Line

Almost enough money is on hand or available to build the proposed 36-inch auxiliary water transmission main from Lake Gordon to the city and to make filtration plant improvements if the cost does not exceed estimates of Whitman, Requard and Associates, Baltimore engineers, according to a check of Water Department finances.

Cost of the line is estimated by the engineers at $845,000, while filtration plant charges include $155,000 for a settling basin, $115,000 for four filter beds, $16,000 for a venturi vault and $7,000 for chemical feeding equipment, making the total for the two projects $1,138,000.

Bond issues of $500,000 and $250,000 have been authorized by the General Assembly, and in addition to this amount the postwar fund contains $168,521 plus interest and cash on hand March 31 amounting to $143,662. In addition about $15,000 already has been spent by the city for valves and other equipment.

Money on hand, available or already spent totals $1,087,183 as compared to a cost estimate of $1,138,000. The difference is $51,000 but by the time the money is actually needed it is expected to be available from cash on hand or obtainable without great difficulty.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards pointed out that the Health Departments of both Maryland and Pennsylvania have approved the projects as planned. The Mayor and Council already has authorized the asking of bids.

Enlist In Army

Captain Laurence M. Bairstow, commanding officer at the local Army Recruiting Station, announced that four men had enlisted in the Army yesterday for three year enlistments.

Harvey Fred Miller, Bloomington; Frederick Lewis Kitzmiller, Elk Garden, W. Va.; and William Lee Watson, Bloomington, signed with the Army Air Force. Clifford Leigh Rinehart, Kincaid, W. Va., joined the Mechanized Cavalry.

Development Of Polio Vaccine Is Described

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—(AP)—Development of an infantile paralysis vaccine said to be capable of producing "a high degree of immunity" in a certain type of rats was described today in the technical journal "Science."

The report, describing the work of a team of Stanford University researchers, contained no statement as to any significance of the studies with relation to the disease in human beings.

The vaccine was prepared with a strain of infantile paralysis virus experimentally developed in the cotton rat—a long-haired burrowing rodent native to the Southern United States and Central America.

Schools Will Open Sept. 4 With Big Enrollment Slated

Allegany County public schools are slated to open Thursday, September 4, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel for the Board of Education, and enrollment for the fall term is expected to take another step toward approaching the 16,000 figure of the early 40's.

First grade enrollment is expected to be over 1,500 as compared to 1,450 last year, while in the high schools the number of ex-GI students is expected to take a sharp drop since most finished last year.

There is the possibility, however, that more students will remain in school instead of quitting to get work and if this takes place high school enrollment will more than hold its own.

Last year there was a total of 15,482 students in county schools, Ramey said. He pointed out that average attendance in Grades 7 ... 12 was 5,843 of which 757 were graduated. To make up for the loss about 1,200 will move up from the Sixth Grade. However, the difference between 1,200 and 757 does not represent the net gain as many students in school last year will not return.

State Police Seek Frostburg Intruder

State Police were still looking last night for an unidentified man who was fired on by an ex-state policeman as he fled through a field after entering Chuckles Bowling Alley at the foot of Welsh Hill on the outskirts of Frostburg early yesterday morning.

William "Chuckles" Keiling, operator of the place, spotted the intruder about 1 a. m. and notified authorities, but, apparently aware of his discovery, the man fled through a rear door and into a nearby field.

Harold C. Carl, former State Police sergeant and Frostburg photographer, fired a 12 gauge shotgun at the man as he fled, according to First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale barracks, but officers surmised that Carl was too far away from the man and that he escaped the blast. A two-hour search was futile.

Nothing was disturbed at the bowling alley by the intruder who apparently gained entrance through the door by which he escaped.

Funds Available For Construction Of Water Line

Almost enough money is on hand or available to build the proposed 36-inch auxiliary water transmission main from Lake Gordon to the city and to make filtration plant improvements if the cost does not exceed estimates of Whitman, Requard and Associates, Baltimore engineers, according to a check of Water Department finances.

Cost of the line is estimated by the engineers at $845,000, while filtration plant charges include $155,000 for a settling basin, $115,000 for four filter beds, $16,000 for a venturi vault and $7,000 for chemical feeding equipment, making the total for the two projects $1,138,000.

Bond issues of $500,000 and $250,000 have been authorized by the General Assembly, and in addition to this amount the postwar fund contains $168,521 plus interest and cash on hand March 31 amounting to $143,662. In addition about $15,000 already has been spent by the city for valves and other equipment.

Money on hand, available or already spent totals $1,087,183 as compared to a cost estimate of $1,138,000. The difference is $51,000 but by the time the money is actually needed it is expected to be available from cash on hand or obtainable without great difficulty.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards pointed out that the Health Departments of both Maryland and Pennsylvania have approved the projects as planned. The Mayor and Council already has authorized the asking of bids.

Enlist In Army

Captain Laurence M. Bairstow, commanding officer at the local Army Recruiting Station, announced that four men had enlisted in the Army yesterday for three year enlistments.

Harvey Fred Miller, Bloomington; Frederick Lewis Kitzmiller, Elk Garden, W. Va.; and William Lee Watson, Bloomington, signed with the Army Air Force. Clifford Leigh Rinehart, Kincaid, W. Va., joined the Mechanized Cavalry.

Development Of Polio Vaccine Is Described

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—(AP)—Development of an infantile paralysis vaccine said to be capable of producing "a high degree of immunity" in a certain type of rats was described today in the technical journal "Science."

The report, describing the work of a team of Stanford University researchers, contained no statement as to any significance of the studies with relation to the disease in human beings.

The vaccine was prepared with a strain of infantile paralysis virus experimentally developed in the cotton rat—a long-haired burrowing rodent native to the Southern United States and Central America.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Miss Alexis Smith,
Warner Brothers Studios
Burbank, California.

Dear Miss Smith:

Though I admire your profile from head to toe, this is not a fan letter. It's a cry for help. I'm in a monstrous predicament and in all the world you're the only one I can turn to night after night in this Turkish bath of a town.

Alexis Smith

I've been trying to hack out some songs for a new show at the Horseshoe — but when dawn whitens the window shades I find myself empty of brain and overflowing of waste basket. The words come out wordy and the melodies aren't mellow. That old Trull—the Muse—has been [illegible] me the brush. Unless you ride to the rescue, my beer-stube is kaput.

"But why me?" I hear you enunciate.

Well, fair lady, I saw you in a Warner epic, called "Rhapsody in Blue"—and I'll never forget how you inspired George Gershwin. One smile from you and he knocked off—"Of Thee I Sing." A hasty kiss—and just like that—"Porgy and Bess."

As I left the theatre I said to the doorman. "She'll bear watching. There's a girl who can set a man's piano afire."

And then I witnessed a private screening of "Night and Day," the lens life of Cole Porter. There you were again, doing for Cole exactly what you did for George—inspiring the bejabbers out of him! (I particularly want to congratulate you on "Begin the Beguine.")

The preview projectionist hardly had gotten the screen credits out of the can when a voice within me kept repeating you! you! YOU! In a flash, I realized what was missing from the Horseshoe songs.

Miss Smith—or Alexis, if I may—please straddle that stratoliner and steer straight for my basement on West Forty-Sixth Street. A week of your double-bubble inspiration and my musical miseries will be over. Instead of rhyming "moon" with "June"—who knows?—I may even rhyme it with "macaroon."

I know you can only stay a little while—Hollywood will soon be calling you but if you could only stick around an extra week it would be good-bye Irving Berlin!

Of course, your stay may not be all ballads and Burgandy. You may have heard that I have a wife—if you haven't I'm firing four press agents tomorrow. I haven't told my favorite aquabelle about this little plan. Although I'm sure she'd understand, I think it would be nicer all around if we kept it our little secret. Oh you kid!

Motorist Fined On Two Driving Counts

Found guilty of drunken and reckless driving, John Moats, 924 Glenwood Street, a B. and O. Backshops worker, was fined $127.90 on the two charges preferred after a two-car crash on Henderson Avenue Monday night.

Moats, who pleaded not guilty to the counts was fined $101.45 for allegedly operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail in default of the fine, and also 25 days in lieu of $26.45 on the reckless driving charge. He paid the fines later.

City Police Officers J. Carl Stouffer and W. E. Valentine arrested the man after his car crashed into a vehicle operated by Ellis E. Broadwater, 416 Valley Street. A woman riding with Broadwater, Mrs. Vera Swartzwelder was treated in Allegany Hospital for possible rib fractures, abrasions of the forehead and other injuries.

Thomas W. Boone, 23 Boone Street, a Celanese worker, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail in default of a $50,75 fine imposed after he pleaded guilty to the unauthorized use of an automobile owned by Harry J. Cioni, La Vale, on July 29. G. E. Coddington arrested Boone on Route 38, Saturday at Kitzmiller. He had the car in his possession from Tuesday of last week until Saturday.

Mrs. Amelia M. Ringler, Corriganville, was found guilty of reckless driving on Mechanic Street Saturday night, and was fined $21.45. A drunken driving charge was dismissed. State Trooper G. M. Rotruck after a 50-mile an hour chase.

Testifying in the woman's defense, a local mechanic said he inspected the vehicle Saturday morning and found a defect in the steering wheel. Another witness said Mrs. Ringler had complained of a headache earlier in the day, and a local physician testified her speech was coherent when she called him from Police Headquarters after her arrest.

Monte Cassino, the monastery in Italy (bombed in World War II), was founded by St. Benedict about 529 A. D., on the site of a temple of Apollo, and was the original home of the Benedictine Order.

Jurors From City To Get More Pay

County Clerk Robert Jackson said yesterday new laws passed by the Maryland legislature would operate to give Cumberlanders a raise in compensation for serving on juries, but that jurors from outlying sections would actually receive less money for their services.

Juror pay was raised in Allegany county from $4 to $5 per day as the basic rate. The difference will give local jurors a clear raise, but expense travel rates have been changed from five cents per mile one way per each day served, to 15 cents per mile in excess of five miles, both ways, once per session.

While the latter rate is higher and covers both directions, in the event of an extended jury trial requiring his services the rural juror would lose money by being allowed to collect only once per session.

With the exception of Anne Arundel and Carroll counties, all Maryland counties were allowed $5 per day for jury service. Anne Arundel was allowed $3.50 and Carroll $4 per day.

On a day in December, 1933, a dynamite explosion set off on the Arctic island of Nova Zembla was detected in Berlin, more than 2,000 miles away.

Motorist Fined On Two Driving Counts

Found guilty of drunken and reckless driving, John Moats, 924 Glenwood Street, a B. and O. Backshops worker, was fined $127.90 on the two charges preferred after a two-car crash on Henderson Avenue Monday night.

Moats, who pleaded not guilty to the counts was fined $101.45 for allegedly operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail in default of the fine, and also 25 days in lieu of $26.45 on the reckless driving charge. He paid the fines later.

City Police Officers J. Carl Stouffer and W. E. Valentine arrested the man after his car crashed into a vehicle operated by Ellis E. Broadwater, 416 Valley Street. A woman riding with Broadwater, Mrs. Vera Swartzwelder was treated in Allegany Hospital for possible rib fractures, abrasions of the forehead and other injuries.

Thomas W. Boone, 23 Boone Street, a Celanese worker, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail in default of a $50.75 fine imposed after he pleaded guilty to the unauthorized use of an automobile owned by Harry J. Cioni, La Vale, on July 29. G. E. Coddington arrested Boone on Route 38, Saturday at Kitzmiller. He had the car in his possession from Tuesday of last week until Saturday.

Mrs. Amelia M. Ringler, Corriganville, was found guilty of reckless driving on Mechanic Street Saturday night, and was fined $21.45. A drunken driving charge was dismissed. State Trooper G. M. Rotruck after a 50-mile an hour chase.

Testifying in the woman's defense, a local mechanic said he inspected the vehicle Saturday morning and found a defect in the steering wheel. Another witness said Mrs. Ringler had complained of a headache earlier in the day, and a local physician testified her speech was coherent when she called him from Police Headquarters after her arrest.

Monte Cassino, the monastery in Italy (bombed in World War II), was founded by St. Benedict about 529 A. D., on the site of a temple of Apollo, and was the original home of the Benedictine Order.

Jurors From City To Get More Pay

County Clerk Robert Jackson said yesterday new laws passed by the Maryland legislature would operate to give Cumberlanders a raise in compensation for serving on juries, but that jurors from outlying sections would actually receive less money for their services.

Juror pay was raised in Allegany county from $4 to $5 per day as the basic rate. The difference will give local jurors a clear raise, but expense travel rates have been changed from five cents per mile one way per each day served, to 15 cents per mile in excess of five miles, both ways, once per session.

While the latter rate is higher and covers both directions, in the event of an extended jury trial requiring his services the rural juror would lose money by being allowed to collect only once per session.

With the exception of Anne Arundel and Carroll counties, all Maryland counties were allowed $5 per day for jury service. Anne Arundel was allowed $3.50 and Carroll $4 per day.

Rodney Is Figured Horse To Beat In Hambletonian

Crowd Today May Top All-Time High

By SID FEDER

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 5—(AP)—Smilin' Bill Cane, the impresario of Good Time Track up here in Orange County, got ready today to rewrite the Hambletonian attendance and betting record books as 13 trotters were entered for tomorrow's 22nd running of the cornltassel derby.

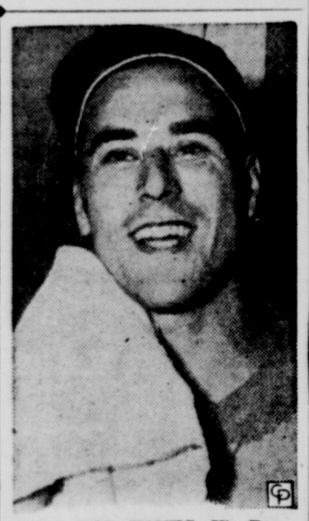
Only five of the baker's dozen were given more than the chances of a hot dog turned loose among the hungry thousands pouring into this sleepy village in the Orange County hills. And as far as the grizzled old-timers were concerned, the one to beat was a giant bargain-counter stepper from Dixie tagged Rodney, who has whipped practically everything in sight up to now.

They'd already sold 18,000 tickets up to tonight, and that figure alone was far over the previous record attendance high of 16,390 which the city slickers and their country cousins set a year ago.

Winner of 15 of his 20 heats as a two-year old lat season, and up to now all-conquering in his three year old races—although he was carried to four heats before grabbing the National stake at Saratoga last month—Rodney figured to be no better than 2 to 1 in the mutuels tomorrow, and probably wouldn't even be that gaudy a price.

He was picked up as a yearling for $4,600 and already has a bank account well into the thirty thousands.

Of the others, the best chances of getting to the cashier's window in front of Rodney for the $24,979.86 winner's paycheck were voted to the double-entries in the field of 13—Hoot Mon and Volotone, from the Castleton Farm of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Johnson of Lexington, Ky., and Trainer Frank Safford's pair of Buckshot B., owned by Martin Burke of Troy, N. Y., and Scotch Thistle, from the barn o fWilliam Erving of Haledon, N. J.



HELP FOR YANKS—Vic Raschi, recalled from Portland, Ore., has bolstered the Yankee pitching corps. Raschi has won four straight games for the Bombers since he joined the club.

Coaches Get First Look At All Stars

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5. — (AP) — Coaches Ira Thomas and Jack Coombs of the Philadelphia Athletics got their first look today at an 18-man squad culled from sandlot diamonds in the nation and Hawaii which will take on a similar crew from Canada in an International All-Star Baseball series here this weekend.

The United States team went through a workout at the Municipal Stadium where games against the Canadian stars will be played Friday and Saturday nights. A third game will be played Sunday if necessary and the winner will take on a picked Baltimore squad the same day.

At the plate, it was Burton Skidmore, Clarksburg, W. Va., second baseman and Norman McCord, New Orleans first sacker, who grabbed the attention. Skidmore smacked a homer into the 290-foot left field stands and McCord bounced a bullet drive off the 325-foot numerals in left center.

"Boys' Week" Games To Be Played Today

Two softball games are scheduled on today's program in connection with Boy's Week at Constitution Park. The first game, which gets underway at 1 o'clock will be between the Cumberland Acres and the Ridgeley Aces.

The second game, scheduled for 3 o'clock, will be the Police Boys Club against Maryland Avenue.

Winners of yesterdays games were the West Side and Casino Cub teams.

Mrs. Morgan C. Harris Wins Handicap Tourney

Acevedo Outpoints Jimmy McAllister

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 5—(AP)—Miguel Acevedo, 130½, of Havana, outpointed Jimmy McAllister, 130½, of Baltimore, in 10 rounds here tonight, but Referee Kid Kaplan was unable to leave the ring for 20 minutes after rendering the decision.

It took police that long to push back the crowd and get Kaplan, former featherweight champion, out of the ring and into his dressing room. Kaplan scored the fight 46 points for Acevedo and 44 for McAllister.

Munger Rejoins Cards

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP) — George Munger, St. Louis Cardinal right-handed pitcher, rejoined the St Louis Club today after a short layoff with stomach flu. Munger pitched batting practice before today's game with the Cubs, and should be ready for starting duty this week-end against Pittsburgh.

Keller Goes To Home At Frederick

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP)—Charley Keller, the powerful New York Yankee outfielder, departed for his Frederick, Md., home today after leaving a hospital where he underwent a spinal operation on July 18.

The operation for the removal of a disc in his spine was pronounced a success but it was considered doubtful that he would be able to play baseball again this season.

Concord And NESA Will Clash Today

Teams Battle For 3rd Place In City League

Concord Clothiers and North End Social and Athletic Club, two of the clubs battling for third place in the City Softball League, will meet in today's top game at Stitcher Field.

The Clothiers hold third place with a record of 8-5 but a victory for North End today would tie the teams for that position.

V.F.W., tied with North End for fourth place at the present time, will play a formidable foe in the runner-up Astor Cab team today on the Rolling Mill diamond.

The Amvets will go after their 14th straight triumph when they battle the Maccabees at Campobello, Reed's Electricians will meet Lacy's Delicatets at Taylor Field and the Virginia Avenue Merchants and American Legion will clash at Community Park.

Legion Wins 7-1

American Legion emerged the victor in the league's only scheduled game yesterday by a score of 7 to 1 at Community Ball Park. Johnny Wolz, Legion pitcher, faced only 24 batters in the seven inning tilt. The losers aided Legion's cause by committing seven costly errors.

Charlie Reed, manager of Reed's Electricians, announced last night that due to his inability to field a team tomorrow night against Astor Cab, the contest wi'l be postponed until both aggregations meet again when a doubleheader will be played.

Champ In Lead Before Kayoing Montgomery

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5 (AP) — Ike Williams, the lightweights' first undisputed champion since 1942, was far out in front last night when a perfectly directed right cross to the chin paved the way for the six-round knockout of Bob Montgomery at the Municipal Stadium.

A check of the three officials' cards today showed that Monty had won only one round and that, in the opinion of just one official.

Judge Frank Knaresborough and Referee Charley Daggert had Williams sailing among with a lead of five rounds to none. The other judge, Harry Laskey, gave the third round to Montgomery and the other four to the Trenton, N. J., Toy Bomber.

Martinsburg Grid Star Will Enroll At W. And L.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 5. (AP)—Jerry Jack, 310-pound Martinsburg High School grid star who was so big it took two pairs of football pants to outfit him, will enroll at Washington and Lee University, it was disclosed today.

A number of colleges had been angling for the 17-year-old grid and track star, who graduated last May with an all-A scholastic record. He stands six feet, two inches, and his weight is well distributed.

His size was such as to pose a problem of football togs until Mrs. John Cobourne, wife of the Martinsburg coach, spliced two sets of trousers into one to cover his frame.

Jack was enrolled several days ago at W. and L., but the fact was not disclosed until today. He had been keeping fit this summer by doing some heavy work at Keyser.

All-Star Contest Is Moved To Hyndman

Alexander "Pop" Nicol, president of the Bi-State Baseball League, announced last night that the All-Star game scheduled in Westvaco on Saturday, August 16, has been moved to Hyndman by the action of the executive committee.

The contest has been placed at Hyndman because of the booking of a rodeo at the Papermakers' park on the same date.

Negro's Option Dropped

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns announced today that the club had dropped its 30-day option of sign Lorenzo (Piper) Davis, star infielder of the Birmingham Black Barons of the Negro American League.

A spokesman for the Browns said that unless some other club signed the negro player before next spring, he probably would go to one of the Browns' minor league clubs for training.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5—(AP)—The Maryland Sportsmen's Luncheon Club voted today to oppose proposals of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission to curtail the shooting of doves, squirrels and rail birds.

The Commission will hold an open meeting here tomorrow to sound out sportsmen on 11 proposed regulations affecting hunting and fishing.

The Luncheon Club will oppose limiting the daily dove-shooting period from noon until sunset instead of from sunrise to sunset; fixing the squirrel season from September 15 to September 30 instead of last season's two months; and setting the rail-bird shooting season from September 1 to September 30.

Mt. Savage Upset By Barton Legion By 7 To 4 Score

Relief Pitcher Leo Bradley led the Barton American Legion nine to their third win in 25 games this season yesterday at Barton by holding Mt. Savage scoreless in the last four innings of a Bi-State League contest as his mates came from behind to tally a 7 to 4 victory.

Mt. Savage, which is battling Frostburg and Lonaconing for a spot in the league playoff, was placed farther back in the race by the loss at the hands of the former Barton High pitcher.

Bradley relieved Duckworth in the fifth inning when the visitors had scored four runs. Kolish, Barton first sacker, opened the winner's half of the sixth frame with a double, the game's longest hit. He advanced to third after Symons grounded out. Brown, the next batter, reached first on an error, and on the next play, Shuck was tossed cut at first and Kolish scored the tying run. Brown tallied the winning run when Howell was safe on an error.

A single, an error and a walk set the stage for the last two runs by the winners in the seventh inning. Joe Bradley tallied on a long fly and Cooper scored on Brown's single.

Kolish, who started the season with Barton and was released to Lonaconing and finally came back to his original nine, had two hits for the winners along with Brown and Howell. Pete Dickle, Mt. Savage, was tops for his team with three hits.

CAMPFIRE CORNER By JACK WELCH

DOG DAYS

ANY HOT, humid weather constitutes dog-day time for the canine population, whether such uncomfortable conditions prevail during the conventional last two weeks of August or earlier in the season. Dogs suffer from heat even more than humans. More attention should be given their welfare during the heated summer months than at any other time of the year.

Never Clip Dogs Coat

In the first place, never clip your dog's coat. Experiments by authorities on the subject have determined that the dog's normal growth of hair affords insulation from heat, and that shearing it off makes conditions worse instead of better. However, you should make a practice of combing or brushing your dog's coat every day. Many dogs reared under more or less artificial conditions don't properly shed their hair with the approach of summer, as wild animals do, and a little help with comb or brush stimulates the skin and speeds up the shedding process. Moreover, your dog's appearance will be improved if he's treated to regular brushings, and when he's permitted to come into the house he'll leave less loose hair in his trail.

Don't overdo your dog's baths, even when the mercury soars up toward the century mark. However, if he likes water and there's a stream or lake nearby treat him to all the swims he seems to enjoy. I take Captain, the Labrador, over to a nearby creek every evening during the summer and let him wade and swim to his heart's content. Lacking anywhere else to give your dog a dousing of cool water you can soak him with a garden hose, or, if the Missus doesn't catch you at it, even stand him in a laundry tub for a while, dashing water over him in the meantime. But a thorough soap-and-suds bath should be given infrequently; it removes oil from the hair and tends to make your dog uncomfortable.

Give Plenty of Water

Adult dogs should be fed once a day, particularly during the summer, and then in the evening. Captain usually gets a mixture of raw horse meat and crumpled dog biscuits. Plenty of clean drinking water should always be available. Provide a cool resting place if possible. Sometimes the basement's the best rendezvous about the average home.

Three Sell-Outs Sure For Notre Dame Tilts

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 5—(AP)—The 1947 Notre Dame football team is certain to play before at least three sell-out crowds this fall.

All tickets for the Notre Dame-Navy game, to be played in Cleveland, November 1, have been sold, Herbert E. Jones, Notre Dame's business manager of athletics, said today. The Notre Dame-Northwestern game to be played at Evanston November 15 also is a sell-out and there will be no public sale of tickets to the Notre Dame-Army game at South Bend, November 8.

Valdina Haven Hung Up Only New Mark In 1946

The fastest five-eighths of a mile ever raced at Fairgo was credited to Looter on August 11, 1945. The time for the five panels was 55 seconds. Robert L. "Bobby" Edens was aboard the record breaker.

Ten races over this distance are scheduled during the first week of the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day meeting which opens Tuesday, August 19.

The fastest 6½ furlongs at the local half mile oval was run by Royal Business with Sammy Palumbo up on August 9, 1941. The time was one minute, 20 2-5 seconds. Twelve 6½ furlongs events will be staged during the first five days of the forthcoming meeting.

Fairgo's most popular jaunt for routers is 1 1-16 miles and this record was established nine years ago by Suncrax. Willie Cook was aboard the winner on August 20, 1938, when the thoroughbred covered the distance in 1 minute, 47 3-5 seconds. Fifteen races over this distance are scheduled for the first five days this year.

The longest races on the program for the initial week will be three over 1 5-16 miles. The only new record was established at Fairgo last year over that distance and is credited to Valdina Haven. "Skeets" Holland was aboard the winner on August 24, 1946, and the time was 2 minutes, 23 4-5 seconds.

Other records set at distances seldom run at Fairgo in recent years include:

Four and one-half furlongs, August 20, 1938, Washoe Valley, Jockey R. Root, time—.53 2-5.

Six furlongs, September 1, 1933, Edna Truesdale, time—1.15 1-5.

One mile, 70 yards, September 1, 1936, Battle Shot, time—1:48.

One and one-eighth miles, August 23, 1932, Tazewell, time—1.50.

One and one-fourth miles, August 9, 1941, Black Crusade, Jockey E. Churchill, time—2.09.

Convicted Horseman Finally Surrenders

BATIMORE, Aug. 5 (AP) — Ronald B. Sanner, College Park, Md., one of two horsemen convicted of entering a "ringer" in a race at Pimlico almost two years ago, surrendered today and was taken to the House of Correction to begin an 18-months sentence.

James S. O'Donnell, Washington, also is on notice to surrender and begin a two-year sentence.

Both men have been free on bond pending action on a motion for reargument of their pleas to the Maryland Court of Appeals, but the state's highest court last week affirmed their convictions and denied the reargument.

Sanner and O'Donnell were convicted of conspiracy to run a horse named Flying Kilts under the name "Rounco" in a race at Pimlico in November, 1945. Both were barred for life from Maryland tracks by the state racing commission.

National Skeet Shoot Is Scheduled Today

SYRACUSE N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP)—Top-ranking sharpshooters start blasting away at the clay pigeons tomorrow in a noisy test to determine the nation's skeet shooting champions for 1947.

Plenty of keen competition was indicated for the five-day shooting spree—the ninth annual National Skeet Championships—with all 1946 titleholders scheduled to risk their laurels.

A record entry of 400 sportsmen and women was forecast.

Charles Poulton, of San Antonio, Tex., was among the favored shooters. The Texan recently won the Alamo skeet championship with 250 straight hits, and was last year's "Champion of Champions," scoring 100x100 in the event open to state titleholders only.

Other 1946 titleholders entered included Alex Kerr, Beverly Hills, Calif., all-gauge; Gerald Batten, Chicago, all-around; Mrs. J. A. La Fore, Jr., Haverford, Pa., women's champion, and D. Lee Braun, Austin, Tex., who last year won the 20-gauge and small-gauge crowns and teamed with Poulton to capture the two-man event.

Aussie Cup Team Will Have Kovacs As Tutor

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP)—Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., formerly a high ranking amateur tennis star and now a professional, said today he had agreed with Roy Cowling, non-playing captain of the Australian Davis Cup squad, to coach the Australians if they reach the challenge round against the United States.

Kovacs will not work with the team in preparation for its matches with Canada and probably Czechoslovakia at Montreal, but he will coach the players against the defending American squad if they are successful in their earlier tests.

Stationed in Australia during the war, Kovacs became well acquainted with the Australian players and tennis officials. He will tour Australia and India on a pro exhibiton junket later in the year.

Clingan Is Reinstated After Manager's Error

Ray Lippold, secretary of the Interstate Baseball League, stated last night that due to an error, Frank Williams, manager of the Moose nine had released Jimmy Clingan in a contract to the league officials instead of Jimmy Lease.

The officers of the league were notified of the error and Clingan was reinstated and will be eligible for Sunday's game. Lease was released from the team. The deadline for contracts in both area leagues is August 1.

The Eagles released John Yaider, Lippold said.

Marty Servo Is Knocked Out By Joe DeMartino

Comeback Campaign Suffers Setback

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 5—(AP)—Joe DeMartino, 145, of Bridgeport, brought Marty Servo's comeback campaign to a stunning halt tonight as he knocked out the former world's welterweight champion after one minute and 28 seconds of the first round of their scheduled bout at Candelite Stadium.

The heavily favored Servo was floored three times before DeMartino's final blow knocked him out of the ring. Servo, from Schenectady, N. Y., also weighed 145.

It was Servo's second fight since the former champ, long on the shelf from a nose injury, essayed a comeback.

Foreign Entries Beaten In Grass Court Matches

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5 (AP) — The heralded "international flavor" that spiced the early rounds of the Eastern Grass Courts Championships was all but erased today at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club when all six seeded foreign men and one ranked foreign women were shunted to the sidelines.

What made the blow particularly hard to take from the standpoint of the visitors was the fact that all except one were eliminated on the American side, was called upon to stop a foreign entrant. He whipped J. H. Mehta of the Indian Davis Cup team, seeded fifth, 7-5, 6-3, in a third round match.

Mehta's two team-mates, S. C. Misra, No. 2, and Man Mohan, No. 3, also absorbed straight-set lickings, the former at the hands of Clarence (Nick) Carter of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2, and Mohan from Earl Cochell of Forest Hills, N. Y., 6-0, 6-3, both in third round tests.

Jack Tuero of New Orleans took care of top-seeded Enrique Morea of Argentina, 6-2, 11-9 and Frank Shields of New York, polished off J. Peten of Belgium, No. 4, 6-3, 6-4, each in the third round. Former Wimbledon Champion Sidney Wood, of New York, completed the route with a 6-3, 6-4 second round victory over Vinicius Rurac of Romania.

The foreign women were treated with more hospitality, only the beautiful Kay Stammers menzies of Great Britain, second seeded, bowing out of the play. She was ousted by blond Louise Snow of Bakersfield, Calif., 0-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Gardnar Mulloy Will Be Questioned About Florida Tour Expenses

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5 (AP) — Gardnar Mulloy, the nation's fifth ranking tennis amateur, thought he was being invited to dinner by United States Lawn Tennis Association moguls only to learn today that he would be asked "some questions about his expense accounts."

Holcombe Ward, USLTA president, disclosed the scheduled appearance tomorrow night of the big Coral Gables, Fla., tennis star before the Amateur Rules Committee of the association at the Harvard Club in New York.

The hearing will be a closed one, Ward said, declining any further discussion of details of what charges, if any, had been made against Mulloy.

There have been printed reports that Mulloy would be questioned concerning a Florida tour last winter and the expenses received. Mulloy arranged the Florida exhibition matches in which such leading amateurs as Jack Kramer, No. 1 in USLTA rankings, Billy Talbert and Pancho Segura participated.

The announcement that Mulloy would be brought "on the carpet" came as a "surprise" to the University of Miami tennis coach, who is seeded No. 2 in the Eastern Grass Courts Championships at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club here.

"Mr. Anton F. Von Bernuth (chairman of the USLTA Rules Committee) invited me to attend the committee dinner tomorrow night at the Harvard Club. I'm surprised to hear now that I'm to be questioned because I was not told that the gathering had anything to do with expenses."

Holmstedt said he had no intention of signing Tandberg for a match with Ezzard Charles in Madison Square Garden.

Rodney Is Figured Horse To Beat In Hambletonian

Crowd Today May Top All-Time High

By SID FEDER

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 5—(AP)—Smilin' Bill Cane, the impresario of Good Time Track up here in Orange County, got ready today to rewrite the Hambletonian attendance and betting record books as 13 trotters were entered for tomorrow's 22nd running of the cornltassel derby.

Only five of the baker's dozen were given more than the chances of a hot dog turned loose among the hungry thousands pouring into this sleepy village in the Orange County hills. And as far as the grizzled old-timers were concerned, the one to beat was a giant bargain-counter stepper from Dixie tagged Rodney, who has whipped practically everything in sight up to now.

They'd already sold 18,000 tickets up to tonight, and that figure alone was far over the previous record attendance high of 16,390 which the city slickers and their country cousins set a year ago.

Winner of 15 of his 20 heats as a two-year old lat season, and up to now all-conquering in his three year old races—although he was carried to four heats before grabbing the National stake at Saratoga last month—Rodney figured to be no better than 2 to 1 in the mutuels tomorrow, and probably wouldn't even be that gaudy a price.

He was picked up as a yearling for $4,600 and already has a bank account well into the thirty thousands.

Of the others, the best chances of getting to the cashier's window in front of Rodney for the $24,979.86 winner's paycheck were voted to the double-entries in the field of 13—Hoot Mon and Volotone, from the Castleton Farm of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Johnson of Lexington, Ky., and Trainer Frank Safford's pair of Buckshot B., owned by Martin Burke of Troy, N. Y., and Scotch Thistle, from the barn o fWilliam Erving of Haledon, N. J.

HELP FOR YANKS—Vic Raschi, recalled from Portland, Ore., has bolstered the Yankee pitching corps. Raschi has won four straight games for the Bombers since he joined the club.

Coaches Get First Look At All Stars

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5. — (AP) — Coaches Ira Thomas and Jack Coombs of the Philadelphia Athletics got their first look today at an 18-man squad culled from sandlot diamonds in the nation and Hawaii which will take on a similar crew from Canada in an International All-Star Baseball series here this weekend.

The United States team went through a workout at the Municipal Stadium where games against the Canadian stars will be played Friday and Saturday nights. A third game will be played Sunday if necessary and the winner will take on a picked Baltimore squad the same day.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 5—(AP)—Miguel Acevedo, 130½, of Havana, outpointed Jimmy McAllister, 130½, of Baltimore, in 10 rounds here tonight, but Referee Kid Kaplan was unable to leave the ring for 20 minutes after rendering the decision.

Concord Clothiers and North End Social and Athletic Club, two of the clubs battling for third place in the City Softball League, will meet in today's top game at Stitcher Field.

The Clothiers hold third place with a record of 8-5 but a victory for North End today would tie the teams for that position.

Champ In Lead Before Kayoing Montgomery

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5 (AP) — Ike Williams, the lightweights' first undisputed champion since 1942, was far out in front last night when a perfectly directed right cross to the chin paved the way for the six-round knockout of Bob Montgomery at the Municipal Stadium.

A check of the three officials' cards today showed that Monty had won only one round and that, in the opinion of just one official.

Judge Frank Knaresborough and Referee Charley Daggert had Williams sailing among with a lead of five rounds to none. The other judge, Harry Laskey, gave the third round to Montgomery and the other four to the Trenton, N. J., Toy Bomber.

Martinsburg Grid Star Will Enroll At W. And L.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 5. (AP)—Jerry Jack, 310-pound Martinsburg High School grid star who was so big it took two pairs of football pants to outfit him, will enroll at Washington and Lee University, it was disclosed today.

A number of colleges had been angling for the 17-year-old grid and track star, who graduated last May with an all-A scholastic record. He stands six feet, two inches, and his weight is well distributed.

His size was such as to pose a problem of football togs until Mrs. John Cobourne, wife of the Martinsburg coach, spliced two sets of trousers into one to cover his frame.

Jack was enrolled several days ago at W. and L., but the fact was not disclosed until today. He had been keeping fit this summer by doing some heavy work at Keyser.

Mt. Savage Upset By Barton Legion By 7 To 4 Score

Valdina Haven Hung Up Only New Mark In 1946

Relief Pitcher Leo Bradley led the Barton American Legion nine to their third win in 25 games this season yesterday at Barton by holding Mt. Savage scoreless in the last four innings of a Bi-State League contest as his mates came from behind to tally a 7 to 4 victory.

Mt. Savage, which is battling Frostburg and Lonaconing for a spot in the league playoff, was placed farther back in the race by the loss at the hands of the former Barton High pitcher.

Bradley relieved Duckworth in the fifth inning when the visitors had scored four runs. Kolish, Barton first sacker, opened the winner's half of the sixth frame with a double, the game's longest hit. He advanced to third after Symons grounded out. Brown, the next batter, reached first on an error, and on the next play, Shuck was tossed cut at first and Kolish scored the tying run. Brown tallied the winning run when Howell was safe on an error.

A single, an error and a walk set the stage for the last two runs by the winners in the seventh inning. Joe Bradley tallied on a long fly and Cooper scored on Brown's single.

Kolish, who started the season with Barton and was released to Lonaconing and finally came back to his original nine, had two hits for the winners along with Brown and Howell. Pete Dickle, Mt. Savage, was tops for his team with three hits.

DOG DAYS

ANY HOT, humid weather constitutes dog-day time for the canine population, whether such uncomfortable conditions prevail during the conventional last two weeks of August or earlier in the season. Dogs suffer from heat even more than humans. More attention should be given their welfare during the heated summer months than at any other time of the year.

Never Clip Dogs Coat

In the first place, never clip your dog's coat. Experiments by authorities on the subject have determined that the dog's normal growth of hair affords insulation from heat, and that shearing it off makes conditions worse instead of better. However, you should make a practice of combing or brushing your dog's coat every day. Many dogs reared under more or less artificial conditions don't properly shed their hair with the approach of summer, as wild animals do, and a little help with comb or brush stimulates the skin and speeds up the shedding process. Moreover, your dog's appearance will be improved if he's treated to regular brushings, and when he's permitted to come into the house he'll leave less loose hair in his trail.

Don't overdo your dog's baths, even when the mercury soars up toward the century mark. However, if he likes water and there's a stream or lake nearby treat him to all the swims he seems to enjoy. I take Captain, the Labrador, over to a nearby creek every evening during the summer and let him wade and swim to his heart's content. Lacking anywhere else to give your dog a dousing of cool water you can soak him with a garden hose, or, if the Missus doesn't catch you at it, even stand him in a laundry tub for a while, dashing water over him in the meantime. But a thorough soap-and-suds bath should be given infrequently; it removes oil from the hair and tends to make your dog uncomfortable.

Give Plenty of Water

Adult dogs should be fed once a day, particularly during the summer, and then in the evening. Captain usually gets a mixture of raw horse meat and crumpled dog biscuits. Plenty of clean drinking water should always be available. Provide a cool resting place if possible. Sometimes the basement's the best rendezvous about the average home.

Three Sell-Outs Sure For Notre Dame Tilts

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 5—(AP)—The 1947 Notre Dame football team is certain to play before at least three sell-out crowds this fall.

All tickets for the Notre Dame-Navy game, to be played in Cleveland, November 1, have been sold, Herbert E. Jones, Notre Dame's business manager of athletics, said today. The Notre Dame-Northwestern game to be played at Evanston November 15 also is a sell-out and there will be no public sale of tickets to the Notre Dame-Army game at South Bend, November 8.

Marty Servo Is Knocked Out By Joe DeMartino

Comeback Campaign Suffers Setback

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 5—(AP)—Joe DeMartino, 145, of Bridgeport, brought Marty Servo's comeback campaign to a stunning halt tonight as he knocked out the former world's welterweight champion after one minute and 28 seconds of the first round of their scheduled bout at Candelite Stadium.

The heavily favored Servo was floored three times before DeMartino's final blow knocked him out of the ring. Servo, from Schenectady, N. Y., also weighed 145.

It was Servo's second fight since the former champ, long on the shelf from a nose injury, essayed a comeback.

Foreign Entries Beaten In Grass Court Matches

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5 (AP) — The heralded "international flavor" that spiced the early rounds of the Eastern Grass Courts Championships was all but erased today at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club when all six seeded foreign men and one ranked foreign women were shunted to the sidelines.

What made the blow particularly hard to take from the standpoint of the visitors was the fact that all except one were eliminated on the American side, was called upon to stop a foreign entrant. He whipped J. H. Mehta of the Indian Davis Cup team, seeded fifth, 7-5, 6-3, in a third round match.

Mehta's two team-mates, S. C. Misra, No. 2, and Man Mohan, No. 3, also absorbed straight-set lickings, the former at the hands of Clarence (Nick) Carter of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2, and Mohan from Earl Cochell of Forest Hills, N. Y., 6-0, 6-3, both in third round tests.

Jack Tuero of New Orleans took care of top-seeded Enrique Morea of Argentina, 6-2, 11-9 and Frank Shields of New York, polished off J. Peten of Belgium, No. 4, 6-3, 6-4, each in the third round. Former Wimbledon Champion Sidney Wood, of New York, completed the route with a 6-3, 6-4 second round victory over Vinicius Rurac of Romania.

The foreign women were treated with more hospitality, only the beautiful Kay Stammers menzies of Great Britain, second seeded, bowing out of the play. She was ousted by blond Louise Snow of Bakersfield, Calif., 0-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Gardnar Mulloy Will Be Questioned About Florida Tour Expenses

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 5 (AP) — Gardnar Mulloy, the nation's fifth ranking tennis amateur, thought he was being invited to dinner by United States Lawn Tennis Association moguls only to learn today that he would be asked "some questions about his expense accounts."

Holcombe Ward, USLTA president, disclosed the scheduled appearance tomorrow night of the big Coral Gables, Fla., tennis star before the Amateur Rules Committee of the association at the Harvard Club in New York.

The hearing will be a closed one, Ward said, declining any further discussion of details of what charges, if any, had been made against Mulloy.

There have been printed reports that Mulloy would be questioned concerning a Florida tour last winter and the expenses received. Mulloy arranged the Florida exhibition matches in which such leading amateurs as Jack Kramer, No. 1 in USLTA rankings, Billy Talbert and Pancho Segura participated.

The announcement that Mulloy would be brought "on the carpet" came as a "surprise" to the University of Miami tennis coach, who is seeded No. 2 in the Eastern Grass Courts Championships at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club here.

"Mr. Anton F. Von Bernuth (chairman of the USLTA Rules Committee) invited me to attend the committee dinner tomorrow night at the Harvard Club. I'm surprised to hear now that I'm to be questioned because I was not told that the gathering had anything to do with expenses."

National Skeet Shoot Is Scheduled Today

SYRACUSE N. Y., Aug. 5 (AP)—Top-ranking sharpshooters start blasting away at the clay pigeons tomorrow in a noisy test to determine the nation's skeet shooting champions for 1947.

Plenty of keen competition was indicated for the five-day shooting spree—the ninth annual National Skeet Championships—with all 1946 titleholders scheduled to risk their laurels.

A record entry of 400 sportsmen and women was forecast.

Charles Poulton, of San Antonio, Tex., was among the favored shooters. The Texan recently won the Alamo skeet championship with 250 straight hits, and was last year's "Champion of Champions," scoring 100x100 in the event open to state titleholders only.

Other 1946 titleholders entered included Alex Kerr, Beverly Hills, Calif., all-gauge; Gerald Batten, Chicago, all-around; Mrs. J. A. La Fore, Jr., Haverford, Pa., women's champion, and D. Lee Braun, Austin, Tex., who last year won the 20-gauge and small-gauge crowns and teamed with Poulton to capture the two-man event.

Aussie Cup Team Will Have Kovacs As Tutor

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP)—Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., formerly a high ranking amateur tennis star and now a professional, said today he had agreed with Roy Cowling, non-playing captain of the Australian Davis Cup squad, to coach the Australians if they reach the challenge round against the United States.

Kovacs will not work with the team in preparation for its matches with Canada and probably Czechoslovakia at Montreal, but he will coach the players against the defending American squad if they are successful in their earlier tests.

Stationed in Australia during the war, Kovacs became well acquainted with the Australian players and tennis officials. He will tour Australia and India on a pro exhibition junket later in the year.

Clingan Is Reinstated After Manager's Error

Ray Lippold, secretary of the Interstate Baseball League, stated last night that due to an error, Frank Williams, manager of the Moose nine had released Jimmy Clingan in a contract to the league officials instead of Jimmy Lease.

The officers of the league were notified of the error and Clingan was reinstated and will be eligible for Sunday's game. Lease was released from the team. The deadline for contracts in both area leagues is August 1.

The Eagles released John Yaider, Lippold said.

Convicted Horseman Finally Surrenders

BATIMORE, Aug. 5 (AP) — Ronald B. Sanner, College Park, Md., one of two horsemen convicted of entering a "ringer" in a race at Pimlico almost two years ago, surrendered today and was taken to the House of Correction to begin an 18-months sentence.

James S. O'Donnell, Washington, also is on notice to surrender and begin a two-year sentence.

Both men have been free on bond pending action on a motion for reargument of their pleas to the Maryland Court of Appeals, but the state's highest court last week affirmed their convictions and denied the reargument.

Sanner and O'Donnell were convicted of conspiracy to run a horse named Flying Kilts under the name "Rounco" in a race at Pimlico in November, 1945. Both were barred for life from Maryland tracks by the state racing commission.

Fishermen Are Happy, Big Pool Filling Up

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 5 (AP) — Big Pool, a well-known haunt of fishermen 10 miles west of here, is filling up again.

Early in June, sportsmen expressed worry over a dangerous drop in he pool's water supply and feared one of the best known fresh water fishing holes in this section of Maryland was drying up.

Officials measuring the water today found it was 35 inches higher than in June. They theorized the drop had been due only to lack of rainfall which since had fallen in abundance and restored tributaries of Big Pool.

Detroit Signs Rolfe As Scout Supervisor

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced today the signing of Robert (Red) Rolfe, former star third baseman of the New York Yankees, in the capacity of supervisor of scouting.

After a number of seasons with the Yankees as player and then coach, Rolfe coached the Yale university baseball and basketball teams and last year piloted a professional basketball team in Toronto.

The word "Rhodendron" comes from the Greek "rhodon" (rose), and "rendron" (tree). There are more than 600 species of rhodendrons, including azaleas, 26 of which are native to North America.

Fishermen Are Happy, Big Pool Filling Up

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 5 (AP) — Big Pool, a well-known haunt of fishermen 10 miles west of here, is filling up again.

Early in June, sportsmen expressed worry over a dangerous drop in he pool's water supply and feared one of the best known fresh water fishing holes in this section of Maryland was drying up.

Officials measuring the water today found it was 35 inches higher than in June. They theorized the drop had been due only to lack of rainfall which since had fallen in abundance and restored tributaries of Big Pool.

Detroit Signs Rolfe As Scout Supervisor

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced today the signing of Robert (Red) Rolfe, former star third baseman of the New York Yankees, in the capacity of supervisor of scouting.

After a number of seasons with the Yankees as player and then coach, Rolfe coached the Yale university baseball and basketball teams and last year piloted a professional basketball team in Toronto.

Frostburg City Water Reservoir To Be Repaired

Report States Tank Walls Are Cracking

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Aug. 5—After receiving a report from James P. Kenney, Jr., water superintendent, Monday evening that the large reservoir at the city filtration plant on the east slope of Big Savage Mountain needed immediate repairs, the Mayor and City Commissioners instructed Alex G. Close, city clerk, to contact construction firms for bids for having repairs made before the winter months arrive.

The water superintendent explained that the walls of the reservoir, above ground, are disintegrating due to the action of ice which forms in winter from water splashing over the top. He recommended that the walls be repaired by experts in that line of work and than an overflow pipe be placed in the structure so as to prevent the water from getting high enough to splash over the top in windy weather.

Kenney also explained that the smaller reservoir had heavier walls and an overflow pipe and, although an older structure, was in first class condition.

Oscar Minnick appeared at the meeting and stated that he wished to purchase down timber from the city property surrounding the Piney Run water shed. He submitted in writing a proposal to pay one half cent for all props, $3 per 1,000 feet for all down timber and such crooked timber that he might be allowed to cut, $2 a cord for all pulpwood and one half cents for all three foot posts.

Before taking any action on the offer of Minnick, the Mayor and City Commissioners decided to meet with him Sunday, August 10, at 1:30 p. m., at Piney Run Dam and survey the situation.

Streets Will Be Repaired

John Richardson appeared before the council and asked that repairs be made on Park Avenue to prevent

Motorcycle Collides With Auto In Keyser Injuring 2 Persons

By MRS. JOSEPH H. TAYLOR

KEYSER, Aug. 5—Two persons were injured, one of them seriously, here early tonight when the motorcycle on which they were riding collided with an automobile at the intersection of South Main and Lincoln Streets.

The injured men, both reported in fair conditions upon admission to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., were:

George Shaw, 27, Grafton, employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here, who was the owner and operator of the motorcycle. He suffered numerous bruises and cuts in the accident but is not believed to be seriously injured.

William Zais, Keyser, who was riding on the rear seat of the vehicle, suffered a broken arm and leg in the accident as well as cuts about the head.

The accident occurred shortly after 6 p. m. when a car operated by J. E. Johnson, 190 A Street, drove east on Lincoln Street and stopped at the Main Street intersection, police said.

Witnesses told police the motorcycle was being driven at a rapid rate of speed when it ran against the side of the Johnson car, just back of the front wheel.

The injured men, one of whom witnesses said was thrown into the air and plunged through the windshield of the car, were taken to the hospital by a mail truck operated by Wesley Neville.

Chief of Police Claude Martin is investigating.

McCauley To Be Sentenced

A mandate confirming the opinion of the State Supreme Court of Appeals that Mark McCauley, convicted slayer of Sgt. Joseph Horne and Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter, was not entitled to a new trial was received this morning by Paul W. Dayton, Clerk of the Circuit Court.

McCauley will probably be brought back to Keyser the last week in August to be re-sentenced for the killing of State Police Sgt. Joseph Horne last September, according to an announcement made this morning by Judge Ernest A. See. A conference with other county officials will be necessary before the exact time can be set.

Council Approves Levy

The City Council approved the payroll for the last half of July today, and the levy for 1947-48 fiscal year was approved, but the levy will have to be approved yet by the State Tax Commissioner.

Expenses for the maintenance of streets and lleys during July amounted to $503.50, with an estimated total budget for the fiscal year being $14,700. Expenditures for the water and sewer departments for July were $392.39, with an estimated budget of $14,750 for the year. According to the financial statement for the City of Keyser, the balance of the budget for the fiscal year is $9,962.16.

Frostburg City Water Reservoir To Be Repaired

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Aug. 5—After receiving a report from James P. Kenney, Jr., water superintendent, Monday evening that the large reservoir at the city filtration plant on the east slope of Big Savage Mountain needed immediate repairs, the Mayor and City Commissioners instructed Alex G. Close, city clerk, to contact construction firms for bids for having repairs made before the winter months arrive.

The water superintendent explained that the walls of the reservoir, above ground, are disintegrating due to the action of ice which forms in winter from water splashing over the top. He recommended that the walls be repaired by experts in that line of work and than an overflow pipe be placed in the structure so as to prevent the water from getting high enough to splash over the top in windy weather.

Kenney also explained that the smaller reservoir had heavier walls and an overflow pipe and, although an older structure, was in first class condition.

Oscar Minnick appeared at the meeting and stated that he wished to purchase down timber from the city property surrounding the Piney Run water shed. He submitted in writing a proposal to pay one half cent for all props, $3 per 1,000 feet for all down timber and such crooked timber that he might be allowed to cut, $2 a cord for all pulpwood and one half cents for all three foot posts.

Before taking any action on the offer of Minnick, the Mayor and City Commissioners decided to meet with him Sunday, August 10, at 1:30 p. m., at Piney Run Dam and survey the situation.

Streets Will Be Repaired

Motorcycle Collides With Auto In Keyser Injuring 2 Persons

By MRS. JOSEPH H. TAYLOR

KEYSER, Aug. 5—Two persons were injured, one of them seriously, here early tonight when the motorcycle on which they were riding collided with an automobile at the intersection of South Main and Lincoln Streets.

The injured men, both reported in fair conditions upon admission to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., were:

George Shaw, 27, Grafton, employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here, who was the owner and operator of the motorcycle. He suffered numerous bruises and cuts in the accident but is not believed to be seriously injured.

William Zais, Keyser, who was riding on the rear seat of the vehicle, suffered a broken arm and leg in the accident as well as cuts about the head.

The accident occurred shortly after 6 p. m. when a car operated by J. E. Johnson, 190 A Street, drove east on Lincoln Street and stopped at the Main Street intersection, police said.

Witnesses told police the motorcycle was being driven at a rapid rate of speed when it ran against the side of the Johnson car, just back of the front wheel.

The injured men, one of whom witnesses said was thrown into the air and plunged through the windshield of the car, were taken to the hospital by a mail truck operated by Wesley Neville.

Chief of Police Claude Martin is investigating.

McCauley To Be Sentenced

A mandate confirming the opinion of the State Supreme Court of Appeals that Mark McCauley, convicted slayer of Sgt. Joseph Horne and Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter, was not entitled to a new trial was received this morning by Paul W. Dayton, Clerk of the Circuit Court.

McCauley will probably be brought back to Keyser the last week in August to be re-sentenced for the killing of State Police Sgt. Joseph Horne last September, according to an announcement made this morning by Judge Ernest A. See. A conference with other county officials will be necessary before the exact time can be set.

Council Approves Levy

The City Council approved the payroll for the last half of July today, and the levy for 1947-48 fiscal year was approved, but the levy will have to be approved yet by the State Tax Commissioner.

The council agreed that the City would lower the sewer at the north end of the alley between D and E Streets. The city plans to purchase a minimum carload of asphalt from the Standard Oil Company for approximately $800.

Expenses for the maintenance of streets and lleys during July amounted to $503.50, with an estimated total budget for the fiscal year being $14,700. Expenditures for the water and sewer departments for July were $392.39, with an estimated budget of $14,750 for the year. According to the financial statement for the City of Keyser, the balance of the budget for the fiscal year is $9,962.16.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5 — The biggest Swedish excitement since Garbo and Bergman is a man — this time. Alf Kjellin, to be exact,—a 27-year-old Scandinavian who is not only the toast of his own country but is drawing raves here in the Swedish-made "Torment".

David Selznick has the prize all packaged for his productions and his first Hollywood movie will be "Tender Is the Night" with Jennifer Jones.

Kjellin is already in New York and heads here in 10 days to talk business with his boss. But in the meantime, he has written David an unconsciously humorous note.

After stating how much he wanted to work with him and how fully he appreciates the opportunities David is lining up for him, Alf added, naively, "Please feel free to put me in anything—if it is good!"

John Steinbeck is one of the few people who could visit in Russia and be welcome. Most people would get the cold shoulder, but not Steinbeck, who is on his way now from Sweden to Moscow, where he will stay a few days getting visas that will enable him to live in a small Russian village.

While there he will write the life of a Russian village, eliminating politics and ideologies, and concentrating on the lives of the villagers.

Mrs. Steinbeck is returning to the United States since no arrangement could be made for her in Russia.

Dolores Del Rio writes that she's leaving tomorrow for the Argentine to make a movie based on "Lady Windermere's Fan." The top Argentinean director, Louis Zavslasky, will be at the helm. She'll stay there until Christmas time.

I don't know any more loyal or devoted fans in the world than the Argentines. I get many letters from Buenos Aires. My column appears in the Buenos Aires Herald, and other South American papers and it is always very gratifying how interested the South Americans are in all that pertains to movies. I hope to go there myself some day soon.

Of all the animal stars in Hollywood, the one that is the most carefully guarded is Jimmy, the Raven, who once appeared on the radio with me On August 12, when "Red Stallion" is previewed by Eagle-Lion at the Chinese Theater, Jimmy and every important animal star in pictures will be on display—but Jimmy is the only one who has been insured.

Before Curley Twiford, his owner, would allow the 14-year-old bird to be exhibited, he asked that $100,000 insurance be taken out on him. That's the amount Jimmy has already earned. In the forecourt will be the famed mountain lion of Curley's, Chita, the Chimp; Lassie, Flicka, Trigger, and Champ, the two western horses, an owl and an eagle that have both figured in current movies, as well as a trained bear.

Teresa Wright, who will undergo a Caesarean for her second baby in September, will be well enough by December to leave for England to make "Secrets" for Samuel Goldwyn.

Teresa is very excited about the picture, because Dana Andrews is the male star—and believe you me, any picture in which Dana is these days is money in the bank. He's that popular. Teresa follows both Mary Pickford and Norma Talmadge in this very appealing role.

If Perry Como can arrange his radio engagements, he'll take off for England the latter part of August to do a quick musical film for J. Arthur Rank, who has offered him the job. Como was with 20th at one time, and then they parted, and since that time the ex-barber has done all right.

He's signed on the radio for two years straight at $6,000 a week and picked up a lot of other change on theater personal appearances in the midwest where he sang.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Who is the pretty red-haired girl Steve Cochran has been escorting around?

Director John Auer and Jean Halperin, a lovely girl visitor from Florida, have been at the Santa Monica Mayfair four times during the past week, which if it isn't serious, is at least consistent.

Margaret Lockwood's six-year-old daughter will come to Hollywood to live with Phyllis Calvert while Miss Lockwood is making personal appearances in the east.

Helen Forrest, who planned to marry Paul Hoolihan immediately, has postponed her marriage in favor of a personal appearance tour.

Kay Thompson, Bill Spier's estranged wife, is expected to establish residence in Las Vegas when she gets there Wednesday to break in her new act at the El Rancho Vegas.

MGM is on the verge of making history by suspending a player. Tom Drake, who refused to make a picture for Bob Sisk, will be taken off the payroll unless he does as he's told.

A new combination is Georgette Windsor and H. D. Hover, owner of Ciro's.

John Carroll and Lucille Ryman, who are still that way about each other, at the King's.

Eddie Dmytryk, who was recently divorced, with Jean Porter at the Santa Monica Mayfair. Rumors report that Jean will be the next Mrs. Dmytryk.

Margaret O'Brien the center of attraction at Peggy Cleary's "Talk Of the Town," where her mother entertained at dinner.

Noel Coward, who is now in New York, is not speaking to Mary Martin. Their battle dates from the time she was in his play in London.

Patty Alicoat, daughter of the publisher of Film Daily, Jack Alicoat, will soon announce her engagement to John Bergen, head of Appollo Records.

Harness Racing Classic Will Be Put On Air Today

By JEAN MEEGAN

NEW YORK, August 6—The Hambletonian Stake, America's harness racing classic, will be broadcast over CBS from Goshen, N. Y., at 3. The event will be aired in two parts, the first for a half hour and the second from 4 o'clock until 4:15. Red Barber will do the color and Roy Shudt will call the race.

Arthur Gaeth, MBS commentator currently in Japan, will play the recordings he made in Hirishima on Cecil Brown's program at 9 Wednesday morning. He interviewed survivors of the atom bomb earlier this summer.

Paulena Carter, 17 year old concert pianist, will present the first radio performance of Earl Lawrence's "Scherzo", on CBS with Meredith Willson's orchestra at 8:30 Wednesday night.

Another significant musical note will occure at 10:30 on CBS. A suite for strings by the contemporary Soviet composer, Ferencz Szabo introduces "Invitation To Music".

Wednesday guest stars include Beryl Davis, the English thrush, on Phil Silvers show at 10 on ABC; Ethel Waters and Alec Templeton with Tex and Jinx at 8 p. m. on NBS; and vocalist Penny Piper with Ken Carson and Jack Meakin at 7:30 on NBC.

Paul Whiteman will play some of the music from the new Bing Crosby picture on 8:30 at ABC.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

That New Singing Sensation

Today, I'm afraid we'll have to take up Vic Damone, the new singing sensation. As far as your ears are concerned, a singing sensation is not much different from a ringing sensation, except that it's external instead of internal. Damone is the bright, particular firefly of the "Saturday Night Serenade," a very hearty musical show, brimful of bounce and nostalgia, which you'll find on CBS 10 P. M. Saturdays. Damone is surrounded by a lot of other talent, but we'll have to take him up first. Singing sensations take precedence over sopranos, seal acts and everything else but Dukes of the royal household.

Frances Langford

Damone is what is known as a soft barytone. To my untrained and skeptical ear, he sounds like Sinatra or Andy Russell or any of the rest of those soft barytones, and I'm darned if I know what the fuss is about. During the war it was customary to call in psychiatrists to explain these singing sensations in medical terms. However, my psychiatrist fell down a well last week, so we'll have to stumble along in lay anguage, much of it comprehensible.

Sinatra, I've always felt, was the inventor of a technique, rather than a possessor of any unique powers of his own. He can be imitated and is imitated very successfully by a great many other singers, whereas Bing Crosby could never be imitated very well by any one. Like all those soft barytones, Damone hugs the microphone, blurs the loudspeaker with carefully phrased mewing which is, if nothing else, a triumph of sound engineering. On open syllables—that is, one that makes you open your mouth wide—he swells like a puff adder; on a closed syllable, he dies like a last glowing ember.

Is anyone stil awake around here?

In addition to Mr. Damone, the program offers Hollace Shaw, a soprano who is likely tossing something like "Intermezzo" in a pure, true, delicate voice intended, I guess, to add a little class to the program. It does, too. Also, there's a chorus—a good, lusty rousing chorus. Last time I heard it, the chorus sang Sigmund Romberg's reliable old chestnut, "Stout Hearted Men" so vigorously that it rang the rafters in my welkin. Several bats in my aunt's belfry got nervous breakdowns. (Today's payday, so I'm unusually open-handed with metaphors. Ask the boys in the back room what they'll have). Gus Haenschen's orchestra provides a background for all this vocalizing and that's all there is—Haenscren, Hollace Shaw, a chorus and that singing sensation.

Whatever happened to all the tenors in the world? They shoot 'em?

The most startling and easily the most modern innovation in Maxwell House Coffee Time, another summer musical show (NBC 8:30 PM EDT Thursdays), is the voice of Eloise Dragon, who helps out Miss Frances Langford in the upper registers. Miss Langford carols along prettily until the grade gets a little too steep for her; then Mrs. Dragon, whose husband conducts the orchestra on this show, soars off into the stratosphere where atmospheric conditions, presumably, are too rough for Miss Langford. When the song returns to the lower frequencies, Miss Langford takes over again.

This is the age of specialization and we'll just have to put up with it. Come to think of it, there is a girl out in Chicago who plays the dramatic voice of Miss Marion Claire on "Chicago Theater of the Air." She does the talking; Miss Claire does the singing. Frankly, I doubt whether this trend will stop there, either. In time, each singer will employ specialists in E flat or C sharp. Nobody will be expected to sing more than one note and the big names, naturally, won't be expected to sing at all. Henry Ford II doesn't carry a wrench, does he?

Let's get back to dry land. Miss Langford, when she's doing her own work, sings as if she enjoys the sport and pretty well carries the show all by herself. While she's resting, the Maxwell House Choir fills in with some such number as "There's a Great Day Coming, Manana." That particular number reminds me strongly of those musical comedies where the chorus, kicking its hind legs frantically, suddenly splits in twain, half to the right and half to the left, and there, in the center of the stage, lovely as ever, and clad in virtually nothing at all, is the leading lady emerging slowy from a clamshell.

Along about the middle of the Maxwell House show, the music stops abruptly and a lot of actors romp around in a deplorable skit about teen agers, or to use an archaic English expression, adolescents. This interlude provides an excellent opportunity to drop out to the kitchen and get another beer.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Harness Racing Classic Will Be Put On Air Today

By JEAN MEEGAN

NEW YORK, August 6—The Hambletonian Stake, America's harness racing classic, will be broadcast over CBS from Goshen, N. Y., at 3. The event will be aired in two parts, the first for a half hour and the second from 4 o'clock until 4:15. Red Barber will do the color and Roy Shudt will call the race.

Arthur Gaeth, MBS commentator currently in Japan, will play the recordings he made in Hirishima on Cecil Brown's program at 9 Wednesday morning. He interviewed survivors of the atom bomb earlier this summer.

Paulena Carter, 17 year old concert pianist, will present the first radio performance of Earl Lawrence's "Scherzo", on CBS with Meredith Willson's orchestra at 8:30 Wednesday night.

Another significant musical note will occure at 10:30 on CBS. A suite for strings by the contemporary Soviet composer, Ferencz Szabo introduces "Invitation To Music".

Wednesday guest stars include Beryl Davis, the English thrush, on Phil Silvers show at 10 on ABC; Ethel Waters and Alec Templeton with Tex and Jinx at 8 p. m. on NBS; and vocalist Penny Piper with Ken Carson and Jack Meakin at 7:30 on NBC.

Paul Whiteman will play some of the music from the new Bing Crosby picture on 8:30 at ABC.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

That New Singing Sensation

Today, I'm afraid we'll have to take up Vic Damone, the new singing sensation. As far as your ears are concerned, a singing sensation is not much different from a ringing sensation, except that it's external instead of internal. Damone is the bright, particular firefly of the "Saturday Night Serenade," a very hearty musical show, brimful of bounce and nostalgia, which you'll find

Frances Langford on CBS 10 P. M. Saturdays. Damone is surrounded by a lot of other talent, but we'll have to take him up first. Singing sensations take precedence over sopranos, seal acts and everything else but Dukes of the royal household.

Damone is what is known as a soft barytone. To my untrained and skeptical ear, he sounds like Sinatra or Andy Russell or any of the rest of those soft barytones, and I'm darned if I know what the fuss is about. During the war it was customary to call in psychiatrists to explain these singing sensations in medical terms. However, my psychiatrist fell down a well last week, so we'll have to stumble along in lay anguage, much of it comprehensible.

Sinatra, I've always felt, was the inventor of a technique, rather than a possessor of any unique powers of his own. He can be imitated and is imitated very successfully by a great many other singers, whereas Bing Crosby could never be imitated very well by any one. Like all those soft barytones, Damone hugs the microphone, blurs the loudspeaker with carefully phrased mewing which is, if nothing else, a triumph of sound engineering. On open syllables—that is, one that makes you open your mouth wide—he swells like a puff adder; on a closed syllable, he dies like a last glowing ember.

Is anyone stil awake around here?

In addition to Mr. Damone, the program offers Hollace Shaw, a soprano who is likely tossing something like "Intermezzo" in a pure, true, delicate voice intended, I guess, to add a little class to the program. It does, too. Also, there's a chorus—a good, lusty rousing chorus. Stock Dealings Remain Sluggish As Half-Hearted Recovery Is Made

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP)—Stocks negotiated a half-hearted recovery today behind selected motors, steels, rails and assorted industrials although dealings remained relatively sluggish and many market leaders failed to patricipate.

Dealings tapered after a fairly active openoing although sizable trades in low-quoted issues propped volume. Extreme gains running to 2 or more points were reduced in the final hour. Transfers of 750,000 shares compared with yesterday's low since June 30 of 730,000.

Packard Motors continued the liveliest mover on 43,200 shares and finished off ⅛ at 4⅞, a bottom for 1947.

Frisco Railroad common, second most active on 23,600 shares, added 1¼ at 10¼ and the preferred 3 at 30½ on word a merger with Gulf Mobile and Ohio was being contemplated. Chesapeake and Ohio jumped better than two points and closed up ⅞ at 48⅛ when directors voted to distribute the road's holdings of Nickel Plate common to stick owners. The latter issue dropped 2¾ at 30 but Nickel Plate preferred was up 1½ at 109½.

Up 1 to 2 were Bethlehem 90⅜, United States Steel 73⅝, Montgomery Ward 61½, Allied Chemical 192, United States Gypsum 101, du Pont 192¾ and American Woolen 44⅜. Improved were Chrysler, General Motors, Studebaker, Goodrich, United States Rubber, International Harvester, American Water Works, Union Carbide, Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific.

On the offside were Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Boeing, United Aaircraft, Kennecott, Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, Southern Railway, Standard Ool (NJ) and Commonwealth and Southern.

Forward curb leaners included Creole Petroleum, Electric Bond and Share and Middle West Corporation. Atlas Plywood and Cities Service were down a shade. Turnover here was 170,000 shares versus 230,000 the day before.

Issues of the Frisco lines raced in front of a steady bond market in response to reports of a possible merger of Frisco and the Gulf Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

United States governments moved narrowly in the over-the-counter market. Sales totaled $3,240,000, compared with $2,830,000 Monday.

Stock Dealings Remain Sluggish As Half-Hearted Recovery Is Made

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP)—Stocks negotiated a half-hearted recovery today behind selected motors, steels, rails and assorted industrials although dealings remained relatively sluggish and many market leaders failed to patricipate.

Dealings tapered after a fairly active openoing although sizable trades in low-quoted issues propped volume. Extreme gains running to 2 or more points were reduced in the final hour. Transfers of 750,000 shares compared with yesterday's low since June 30 of 730,000.

Packard Motors continued the liveliest mover on 43,200 shares and finished off ⅛ at 4⅞, a bottom for 1947.

Frisco Railroad common, second most active on 23,600 shares, added 1¼ at 10¼ and the preferred 3 at 30½ on word a merger with Gulf Mobile and Ohio was being contemplated. Chesapeake and Ohio jumped better than two points and closed up ⅞ at 48⅛ when directors voted to distribute the road's holdings of Nickel Plate common to stick owners. The latter issue dropped 2¾ at 30 but Nickel Plate preferred was up 1½ at 109½.

Up 1 to 2 were Bethlehem 90⅝, United States Steel 73⅝, Montgomery Ward 61½, Allied Chemical 192, United States Gypsum 101, du Pont 192¾ and American Woolen 44⅜. Improved were Chrysler, General Motors, Studebaker, Goodrich, United States Rubber, International Harvester, American Water Works, Union Carbide, Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific.

On the offside were Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Boeing, United Aaircraft, Kennecott, Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, Southern Railway, Standard Ool (NJ) and Commonwealth and Southern.

Forward curb leaners included Creole Petroleum, Electric Bond and Share and Middle West Corporation. Atlas Plywood and Cities Service were down a shade. Turnover here was 170,000 shares versus 230,000 the day before.

Issues of the Frisco lines raced in front of a steady bond market in response to reports of a possible merger of Frisco and the Gulf Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

United States governments moved narrowly in the over-the-counter market. Sales totaled $3,240,000, compared with $2,830,000 Monday.

Graham Confers With Commission On Airport Report

Will Be Subjected To Further Study

William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, president of Cumberland Airways, conferred here last night with members of the Municipal Airport Commission concerning the still unapproved 1946 financial report of operations at the local airport.

The report was rejected by the commission in April but the discussion last night disclosed that some matters under consideration were built on misunderstanding.

As yet the report has not been made public. It will be subjected to further study by Graham who will confer or communicate later with the airport commission before any further action is taken.

Urge Closer Co-operation

Graham, who was accompanied by his counsel, L. L. Atkinson, suggested that his company make more frequent reports to the commission in order to avoid future misunderstandings.

Both he and Edmund S. Burke, chairman of the commission, called for closer co-operation among the parties in operation of the airport.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, who audited the airways' books, and City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett were present.

Graham pictured the aviation outlook as "not good" and said that while he believes in the future of aviation here, "it is going to be tough."

He termed the Cumberland Airport a more successful operation than that at Johnstown, but told the commission that from the present appearance of the aviation picture instead of thinking about profits it will be necessary to see how low losses can be kept.

Concerning airline service here, Graham said airlines are not enthusiastic about "getting in here," and added that the "fight" for airline service will be a long one.

One factor, he said, is that use of the long runway is handicapped because of Knobley Mountain. He cited too that setting up airline facilities here, along with many other points, would cost a lot of money.

Favorably Inclined

Oscar C. Gurley, a commission member, said, that he had conferred yesterday with Harry Hook, Civil Aeronautics Administration chief, and that Hook was "very favorable" in his comments on the field, which has not been certified for airline service.

Heskett said that he believes United Airlines is sincere about wanting to serve Cumberland and pointed out that that firm at a recent federal hearing devoted much of its time to the fact that the local $3,000,000 airport had not been certified.

Graham told the commission that A. Derr Golladay, local plane designer and engineer, conferred with him today about locating a plant for the production of a newly designed plastic airplane on the airport property.

He said he advised Golladay to submit more specific plans to him and that he would then turn them over to the commission. Graham added that he is anxious to see Golladay get started at the local field.

Busy Schedule Arranged For Legislative Council

According to State Senator Robert B. Kimble, (R-Allegany) minority floor leader who arranged the trip, the legislature's fact finding group will pay particular attention to the devastating effects of coal strip mining operations in this county, and will also inspect Frostburg State Teachers College. Kimble says he emphatically opposes the Marbury Committee's recommendation to close the college, and wants council members to visit the school.

At the same time, the council will meet county and municipal officials and will inspect industries and other places in this part of the state.

Beginning with a business session tonight at the hotel here, the visitors have a busy schedule ahead of them. Thursday morning, they will have breakfast at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company after which they will tour the plant.

Following a tour of the B. and O. shops here, the Council is scheduled to arrive at State Teachers College at 11 a. m. to inspect the buildings.

Following lunch at the college, two coal mines at Lonaconing will be inspected, with this part of the tour arranged by Dr. J. J. Rutledge, chief of the Maryland Bureau of Mines. They will also visit several sites where strip mining operations are under way and where others have been completed to see the effects of this type of mining.

The Miners Hospital at Frostburg will be inspected and at 6:30 p. m. the party will be guests of a committee of citizens interested in State Teachers college, at dinner at Big Savage Hotel.

Saturday's schedule will begin with breakfast at the Liberty Tavern, with William C. Walsh, former attorney general, as the host. The visitors will then go to Luke for a tour of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill, and to look over pollution of the Potomac River. A visit to the Savage River dam site is also scheduled, after which the party will motor to Swallow Falls State Park to check over the state forest program. They will have dinner at New Germany State Park where they will spend the night. They will also meet county and municipal officials of Garrett county, Saturday night at New Germany.

Louis Stein Held In Family Fight, Police Declare

Man Allegedly Choked His Wife

Louis G. Stein, 321 Holland Street, who police said choked his wife and created a neighborhood disturbance in violation of an Allegany County Circuit Court restraining order, was being held in City Jail last night on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge.

A local attorney who is representing Mrs. Stein in a partial divorce action, said he will have the defendant cited on a contempt of court charge this morning following his hearing in Police Court.

Police said Stein was arrested on Henderson Avenue after he allegedly choked his wife and threw a flower pot through the window of his home, last night. An arresting officer said Mrs. Stein showed him several red finger prints on her throat and told him that her husband had choked her.

Stein, according to his wife's attorney, was ordered to refrain from entering the premises at 321 Holland Street and from molesting his wife in an order signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster on July 10, when action for a partial divorce was filed.

According to the attorney, the husband was cited into court last Saturday to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court after he created a disturbance at the home. The attorney said he was paroled on condition he observe the restraining order.

Police said the disturbance attracted a large crowd of neighbors in the Holland Street section, and added a crowd had gathered around the house when officers arrived.

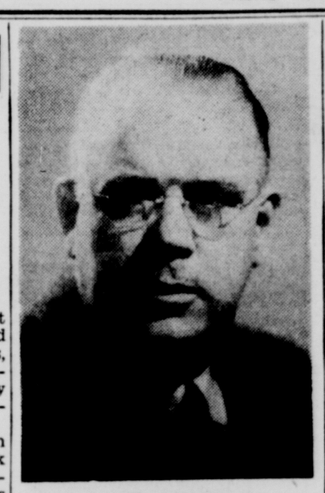
The desk sergeant said he ordered officers to the scene after he received an "emergency" call from a telephone operator. Several other calls for the police followed the emergency call, the sergeant stated.

Police said they were informed by witnesses that an unidentified man entered the home during the fight and pulled Stein away from his wife. The man, whom police did not identify, stated, they said, that "Stein would have killed her."

Mrs. Stein's attorney said the divorce action was filed on grounds of cruelty. Stein, according to the attorney, was ordered to pay his wife $25 a week for support of two minor children pending final action of the court on the divorce suit.

Police said Stein will be given a hearing this morning in Police Court on the drunk and disorderly conduct charge, but added it would be up to Mrs. Stein's counsel or county authorities to prefer charges in connection with the alleged contempt action.

Officers John Powers and John Snyder made the arrest.



TAKEN BY DEATH—Dr. Arthur P. Dixon, 61, well known local dentist, died suddenly last night at his home, 616 Washington Street. He had practiced here since 1912 and served with the army dental corps during World War I.

Dr. A. P. Dixon, Well Known Local Dentist, Succumbs

Served In Army Dental Corps In World War I

Dr. Arthur P. Dixon, 61, well known local dentist, died suddenly last night at 7:30 o'clock at his home, 616 Washington Street.

Dr. Dixon, who has been suffering from a heart condition for about eight months, had been unable to work since about four months ago when he suffered a heart attack at Deep Creek Lake.

He had spent much of the time since then at his summer home on the lake but had returned home here over the weekend. He was apparently well when he died suddenly last night suddenly after eating dinner.

The well known local dentist was a native of this city, a son of Mrs. Mary Miller Dixon, this city, and the late Charles F. Dixon.

He was a graduate of Allegany County High School and the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, class of 1911.

Dr. Dixon began his dental career here in 1912 and in addition to his general dental practice.

He had served as a captain in the army's dental corps during World War I for about two and one-half years.

He was serving his second term as a member of the State Board of Dental Examiners at the time of his death.

Dr. Dixon was a member of the Allegany-Garrett Dental Society, the Maryland Dental Society, the American Dental Society and the American College of Dentists.

Dr. Dixon had been president of the Cumberland Country Club for a number of years and was a member of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks.

Surviving are his mother; his widow, Mrs. Ellen Daisy Dixon, and a daughter, Mrs. Frederick Steiding, this city.

Steps To Improve Flow Of Traffic Cited In Report

Through Highway To South End Proposed

The crosstown viaduct, although an important improvement, is not the only work that will be required to provide adequate facilities for traffic flow in Cumberland's primary highway system, according to the report of Whitman, Requardt and Associates submitted to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Specific needs cited are improvement to highways serving South Cumberland, improved facilities on Bedford Road, and by-passes through West Side to serve heavy traffic flow to and from industrial areas which is now required to pass through the downtown area.

The report recommends improvements to a route to South Cumberland and the airport, and suggests that beginning at a proposed reconstructed intersection on Williams Street at the south end of Mechanic and Centre Streets a through highway be constructed following Wineow Street along its present alignment and through the Wineow Street underpass to Thomas Street, to Virginia Avenue, through the Virginia Avenue underpass, along Virginia Avenue on its present alignment, along a new right-of-way on Virginia Avenue extended and over a new interstate bridge to replace the present Wiley Ford bridge over the North Branch to a point in West Virginia on the present highway to the airport.

New Overpass Needed

The described improvement would require new right-of-way and construction at the south end of both Mechanic and Centre Streets, a new overpass of the Western Maryland railroad near the south end of Virginia Avenue and a new bridge replacing the present Wiley Ford bridge over the North Branch as its major construction features. It is suggested that every effort be made to obtain a curb to curb width of 38 feet.

A suggested alternative route south of the Wineow Street underpass would be the construction of the new highway following the C. and O. canal to South Cumberland and the relocated Wiley Ford bridge.

One-way traffic for Bedford and Frederick Streets is viewed as doing much to eliminate the present restricted traffic flow and dangerous conditions resulting from parked cars. Widening of both Bedford and Frederick Streets from Decatur southward to Centre and Mechanic Streets should be carried out to give additional driving width. To accomplish this without heavy property damage it is suggested that sidewalk width could be reduced to a minimum.

Would Help Traffic

A by-pass from the Henderson Avenue Viaduct southwestward over Mechanic Street, Wills Creek and the Western Maryland railroad to Wills Creek Avenue and thence to Fayette Street on West Side is seen as resulting in a definite improvement to traffic flow.

Later, it is believed possible this roadway could be extended south and east to join with existing streets near the end of Kelly Boulevard, providing an outlet for Kelly-Springfield traffic destined southeastward over McMullen Highway and northward through the Narrows.

Development and extension of the secondary highway system is termed largely dependent upon the growth of new sub-divisions for residential use. The report states that it will be to the advantage of the city as a whole if control is exercised over sub-divisions and new streets to insure proper width, grade and alignment and proper co-ordination with the existing street pattern.

Valley Road Group Takes Court Action To Get Water

Charges Supply Has Been Turned Off

A petition for an injunction was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by a group of residents in the Glenora Addition, Valley Road, charging that Virginia Lee Wertz and Ralph Wertz have denied them the use of water from a "community" reservoir, on the Wertz property.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson signed an order of court issuing the injunction, requiring the Wertz couple to refrain from disturbing the water supply, to refrain from turning off the water and to turn it on so the several homes attached to the supply will be supplied. Bond was fixed at $1,000 for compliance, and the defendants were ordered to reply to the charges.

Filed by Kermit B. Van Pelt and Grace Van Pelt, his wife; John W. Bunner, Manuel Bobo, John E. Liller, Howard F. Hillegas, John E. Blonskey and Bernard L. Williams, the petition claims the petitioners are all property owners and residents in the Glenora section and that since August 1, the water which supplies their homes has been turned off.

They charge that the Wertz couple had a valve put in the main line to the reservoir on their property, and that the valve has been closed.

It is further claimed that they were given the right to use this water supply when they purchased lots in the Addition, and challenge the right of the Wertz couple to deny them water or the use of the reservoir.

Estel C. Kelley, attorney for the petitioners said he believes the property owners are legally entitled to the water, and that court action became necessary when the Wertz couple turned off the water.

Mrs. Wertz, in a telephone conversation with the News said there are 13 homes tapped to the system and that it is inadequate to supply this number. She said she had attempted to collect water rental at the rate of $1 a month from each family, but they had failed to pay. She also declared the reservoir needs cleaning and enlarging, and that she could get little or no help from other families using the system.

"Miss Maryland" Spends Quiet Day With Family, And Friends

Runner-Up Also Stays At Home

A quiet day at home, and a movie last night, was the schedule followed by Miss Caroline Jean Dixon, 18, 696 Fayette Street, who was awarded the title of "Miss Maryland" in the state competition held at Fort Hill High School Monday night.

Jean's mother, Mrs. Harry Dixon, said last night that Jean spent the night with a school friend, Miss Patty Anderson, 822 Greene Street, and that the girls slept late. After the contest, Mrs. Dixon explained, Jean was quite tired, so she didn't get up very early and came home around noon.

During the afternoon she went with a photographer to get some outdoor photographs to be used for publicity purposes, and then went to a movie with some girls.

Mrs. Dixon, quite pleased with her lovely daughter's success, seems a little uncertain about it all. She was sitting at home looking at a number of photographs Keith Sisk took at the pageant, when a reporter called. She said, "all the girls looked so nice and they seem to be very nice girls. I was afraid when Jean entered the competition that I wouldn't like the idea, but the Jaycees certainly conducted a very nice affair. I'm happy she won, but none of us expected that she would."

Will Attend College

Jean's mother said that Jean is planning to attend Potomac State College next fall and then to continue her education the following year at the University of Maryland, unless she wins a scholarship in the Atlantic City contest. Mrs. Dixon seems to think this unlikely, and says they are making their own plans accordingly, although it would be quite wonderful if Jean did win, she admitted.

Jean has made no plans for her Atlantic City appearance yet, and it is a little early to start. Her mother declared that she is quite unaffected by it all, and still seems surprised that she was actually crowned "Miss Maryland."

Jean's father is an employe of the Western Maryland Railway, as a road foreman of engines. He moved his family here from Connellsville, Pa., in 1925.

There are six children in the family, Mrs. Dixon said last night. The eldest, Betty Lee is now Mrs. Willard Lewis, Jr., and lives at Deposit, N. Y. Betty Lee is quite talented, her mother declared, and won several contests in voice competition in Pennsylvania and also won a scholarship in music. So contests aren't exactly new to the Dixons.

Clark Dixon, 22, Jean's brother, is a student at Potomac State College and a veteran. He is working on the railroad this summer, his mother explained.

Will Model Gowns

Another brother, Joseph Dixon, 20, is in the Army, stationed at Hickam Field, Hawaii.

Then there are also Frederick, 15, and Anne, 13, a pretty little blonde school girl, who thinks Jean's success is "just wonderful."

Mrs. Dixon said Jean has no particular schedule she is following for the next few days, but will have many things to do before she leaves for Atlantic City. On Thursday and Friday, however, she has agreed to model some gowns at a local store.

Asked if she intends to accompany Jean to Atlantic City, Mrs. Dixon said, "no, with two railroad men and two youngsters to look after, I'll be busy enough at home. I'm satisfied too that Jean will be all right. I don't know yet, who her chaperone will be."

Miss Betty Lou Rankin, who was first runner-up in the "Miss Maryland" contest here Monday night, and brought the honor of being a winner to her home-town, Lonaconing, said last night that she enjoyed being in the contest, and believes that Miss Jean Dixon, the winner, will make a splendid showing at Atlantic City next month.

Betty Lou said she is not exactly disappointed, because "I did better than I had even hoped, and all the girls were such good sports about the contest."

She explained that she is not working at present and gave up her job as a receptionist at the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington several months ago, to come home and care for her mother who has been quite ill.

Lonaconing Is Pleased

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rankin, 77 East Main Street, Lonaconing. Her father is a mine foreman for the Georges Creek Coal Company.

Miss Rankin was graduated from Central High School in 1943 and

Expect 15,000 Delegates

None of the delegations from this end of the state have been pledged to any particular candidates, Conlon said last night. He explained that three Legionnaires are seeking the post of department commander, including Samuel Cohen, World War I veteran, of Hagerstown; Harry Allan, World War I, veteran, of Laurel and Winship Weakley, veteran of World War II, of Havre de Grace. Cohen was in Cumberland last week, attempting to secure support in his campaign.

Ridgeley High Plans Course In Driver Education

Jesse Riggelman, physical education instructor at Ridgeley, W. Va., High School, will be the instructor for the driver education course the school will institute at the beginning of school in September, Melvin M. Heiskell, principal announced last night.

Coach Riggleman is in Morgantown, W. Va., this week attending an intensive five day course in driver education which is being offered by West Virginia University.

The Ridgeley Lions Club is sponsoring the course so that Ridgeley High School can qualify for the use of a dual-control automobile in the school this year.

He will be scheduled for two hours of driver education each school day and plans call for offering the course to about 40 students during the year.

The West Virginia Department of Education, Heiskell said, has been recommending for several years that schools offer courses of driver education.

The West Virginia Department of Public Safety also has been aiding, wherever possible, in the program. Statistics, officials point out, prove that 'teen age drivers have a bad accident record.

So far, some 5,000 of the 28,000 high schools in the United States have offered driver education courses, but not all of the schools have been able to present actual driving practice along with theoretical work. The American Automobile Association has co-operated in providing dual-control cars in many areas.

For the past two years, the subject has been included in the course of study in West Virginia.

Poilce Seek Trio In Stabbing Of Piedmont Negro

PIEDMONT, W. Va., Aug. 6.—Police of two states were looking early this morning for three negroes, believed to be residents of Paw Paw or Cumberland, in connection with the stabbing of a 19-year-old Piedmont negro at the conclusion of a dance at Ramble Inn here, according to police.

The stabbed youth was identified by Dr. P. R. Wilson as Lawrence Thompson, 19. The physician said the youth, a recently discharged soldier, was stabbed in the right chest but that the wound is not believed serious.

The wound was described as not large and not very deep although Thompson lost a good bit of blood as a result of severed arteries. Following treatment by the physician he returned to his home.

Maryland State Police set up road blocks on Route 220 and 36 while West Virginia State officers scoured roads in this section and nearby for the trio, believed headed toward Cumberland.

Thompson, who was accompanied to the doctor's office by about half a dozen other negroes his age, said he was fighting with his fists with a negro from Paw Paw when a second Paw Paw negro cut him.

The negro who inflicted the wound and two companions fled in what police said was a 1937 Chevrolet coupe bearing Maryland tags. They got a head start over pursuing police who were blocked at a grade crossing by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train.

Piedmont police said officers "just missed" nabbing the trio in Keyser.

VFW Sells Lot On S. Centre St. To Car Dealers

Members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, last night authorized the sale of a large lot on South Centre Street, which the VFW purchased several months ago, to Gulick Brothers, who operate a used car business on the property.

James Kloran, vice-commander presided at the meeting in the absence of Lee Thrasher, post commander. He declined to state the amount of the sale, although it was stated that the post realized a profit of about $2,000 on the transaction.

The lot, at one time owned by the old Cumberland Daily News Company, was purchased by the Veterans with the idea of building a new modern home on the site, but in view of building costs the project was abandoned.

The post had a record attendance last nigtht with the meeting room filled to capacity.

Whalley reported on his visit to the VFW home at Eton Rapids, Mich., and declared the place is well managed and is unlike any orphanage or institution. He said it is exactly like any other community and facilities are the best obtainable. He urged all the members to plan to make the trip next year when the annual excursion is arranged.

Pilots Escape Injury In Accidents, But Farm Woman Holds Their Planes

A student pilot and his instructor escaped injury last night in a twin plane accident on the Clauson farm, four miles north of the city, but police said they may have trouble reclaiming the planes.

Mrs. Ruth A. Clauson, according to police, refused to let the pilots remove their planes, both slightly damaged, after they landed in a hay field on her property, located between Bedford and Mason roads.

The student, D. G. Dehrbach, 21, 721 Maryland Avenue, told police, they said, that his motor "concked out" and he was forced to make a forced landing on the Clauson farm. The instructor, Robert J. Stewart, 255 East Main Street, Frostburg, landed his plane near Dehrabach after the accident, police said.

Following the investigation by Cpl. Thomas Veditz, Maryland State Police, Dehrbach, over the protests of Mrs. Clauson, started to taxi his plane across the property for a takeoff, but the plane nosed over and was damaged slightly.

Police said the planes, both Piper J-3 Cubs from the Cumberland Airport, were slightly damaged, but neither pilot suffered a "scratch."

Dehrbach, according to police, was soloing while Stewart was checking his operations from the other plane at the time the motor stalled. Both planes had been in the air about an hour at the time of the accident, authorities stated.

Police said the plane caused some damage to the hay crop in the field, but explained they did not know what provisions the two pilots will have to make with Mrs. Clauson before they receive her permission to remove the planes.

Neither pilot could be reached late last night for comment.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP) — Legislation authorizing payment of $5,000 as compensation for the death of Reuben Malkin, who was electrocuted May 28, 1943, while painting at the Cumberland, Md., post office, was signed by President Truman today.

Malkin, a 28-year-old Brooklyn, standing on a transformer while painting a conduit when he came in contract with the high tension wire.

The shock of the current threw Malkin from the platform to a concrete area 15 feet below, where he suffered a fractured skull and a crushed chest. Authorities reported these injuries were, however, secondary to the burns.

Dr. Linne H. Corson, then deputy county medical examiner, said Malkin suffered unusually severe burns which penetrated the flesh to the bone.

The man had returned to Cumberland from Frederick two days before the accident and, with one of his workmen, was completing the job of painting the post office when he met his death.

The only remaining work, authorities said, was the touching up of the conduit.

Graham Confers With Commission On Airport Report

Will Be Subjected To Further Study

William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, president of Cumberland Airways, conferred here last night with members of the Municipal Airport Commission concerning the still unapproved 1946 financial report of operations at the local airport.

The report was rejected by the commission in April but the discussion last night disclosed that some matters under consideration were built on misunderstanding.

As yet the report has not been made public. It will be subjected to further study by Graham who will confer or communicate later with the airport commission before any further action is taken.

Urge Closer Co-operation

Graham, who was accompanied by his counsel, L. L. Atkinson, suggested that his company make more frequent reports to the commission in order to avoid future misunderstandings.

Both he and Edmund S. Burke, chairman of the commission, called for closer co-operation among the parties in operation of the airport.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, who audited the airways' books, and City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett were present.

Graham pictured the aviation outlook as "not good" and said that while he believes in the future of aviation here, "it is going to be tough."

He termed the Cumberland Airport a more successful operation than that at Johnstown, but told the commission that from the present appearance of the aviation picture instead of thinking about profits it will be necessary to see how low losses can be kept.

Concerning airline service here, Graham said airlines are not enthusiastic about "getting in here," and added that the "fight" for airline service will be a long one.

One factor, he said, is that use of the long runway is handicapped because of Knobley Mountain. He cited too that setting up airline facilities here, along with many other points, would cost a lot of money.

Favorably Inclined

Oscar C. Gurley, a commission member, said, that he had conferred yesterday with Harry Hook, Civil Aeronautics Administration chief, and that Hook was "very favorable" in his comments on the field, which has not been certified for airline service.

Heskett said that he believes United Airlines is sincere about wanting to serve Cumberland and pointed out that that firm at a recent federal hearing devoted much of its time to the fact that the local $3,000,000 airport had not been certified.

Graham told the commission that A. Derr Golladay, local plane designer and engineer, conferred with him today about locating a plant for the production of a newly designed plastic airplane on the airport property.

He said he advised Golladay to submit more specific plans to him and that he would then turn them over to the commission. Graham added that he is anxious to see Golladay get started at the local field.

Valley Road Group Takes Court Action To Get Water

Charges Supply Has Been Turned Off

A petition for an injunction was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by a group of residents in the Glenora Addition, Valley Road, charging that Virginia Lee Wertz and Ralph Wertz have denied them the use of water from a "community" reservoir, on the Wertz property.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson signed an order of court issuing the injunction, requiring the Wertz couple to refrain from disturbing the water supply, to refrain from turning off the water and to turn it on so the several homes attached to the supply will be supplied. Bond was fixed at $1,000 for compliance, and the defendants were ordered to reply to the charges.

Filed by Kermit B. Van Pelt and Grace Van Pelt, his wife; John W. Bunner, Manuel Bobo, John E. Liller, Howard F. Hillegas, John E. Blonskey and Bernard L. Williams, the petition claims the petitioners are all property owners and residents in the Glenora section and that since August 1, the water which supplies their homes has been turned off.

They charge that the Wertz couple had a valve put in the main line to the reservoir on their property, and that the valve has been closed.

It is further claimed that they were given the right to use this water supply when they purchased lots in the Addition, and challenge the right of the Wertz couple to deny them water or the use of the reservoir.

Estel C. Kelley, attorney for the petitioners said he believes the property owners are legally entitled to the water, and that court action became necessary when the Wertz couple turned off the water.

Mrs. Wertz, in a telephone conversation with the News said there are 13 homes tapped to the system and that it is inadequate to supply this number. She said she had attempted to collect water rental at the rate of $1 a month from each family, but they had failed to pay. She also declared the reservoir needs cleaning and enlarging, and that she could get little or no help from other families using the system.

"Miss Maryland" Spends Quiet Day With Family, And Friends

Runner-Up Also Stays At Home

A quiet day at home, and a movie last night, was the schedule followed by Miss Caroline Jean Dixon, 18, 696 Fayette Street, who was awarded the title of "Miss Maryland" in the state competition held at Fort Hill High School Monday night.

Jean's mother, Mrs. Harry Dixon, said last night that Jean spent the night with a school friend, Miss Patty Anderson, 822 Greene Street, and that the girls slept late. After the contest, Mrs. Dixon explained, Jean was quite tired, so she didn't get up very early and came home around noon.

During the afternoon she went with a photographer to get some outdoor photographs to be used for publicity purposes, and then went to a movie with some girls.

Mrs. Dixon, quite pleased with her lovely daughter's success, seems a little uncertain about it all. She was sitting at home looking at a number of photographs Keith Sisk took at the pageant, when a reporter called. She said, "all the girls looked so nice and they seem to be very nice girls. Will Model Gowns

Another brother, Joseph Dixon, 20, is in the Army, stationed at Hickam Field, Hawaii.

Then there are also Frederick, 15, and Anne, 13, a pretty little blonde school girl, who thinks Jean's success is "just wonderful."

Mrs. Dixon said Jean has no particular schedule she is following for the next few days, but will have many things to do before she leaves for Atlantic City. On Thursday and Friday, however, she has agreed to model some gowns at a local store.

Miss Betty Lou Rankin, who was first runner-up in the "Miss Maryland" contest here Monday night, and brought the honor of being a winner to her home-town, Lonaconing, said last night that she enjoyed being in the contest, and believes that Miss Jean Dixon, the winner, will make a splendid showing at Atlantic City next month.

Louis Stein Held In Family Fight, Police Declare

Man Allegedly Choked His Wife

Louis G. Stein, 321 Holland Street, who police said choked his wife and created a neighborhood disturbance in violation of an Allegany County Circuit Court restraining order, was being held in City Jail last night on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge.

A local attorney who is representing Mrs. Stein in a partial divorce action, said he will have the defendant cited on a contempt of court charge this morning following his hearing in Police Court.

Police said Stein was arrested on Henderson Avenue after he allegedly choked his wife and threw a flower pot through the window of his home, last night. An arresting officer said Mrs. Stein showed him several red finger prints on her throat and told him that her husband had choked her.

Stein, according to his wife's attorney, was ordered to refrain from entering the premises at 321 Holland Street and from molesting his wife in an order signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster on July 10, when action for a partial divorce was filed.

According to the attorney, the husband was cited into court last Saturday to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court after he created a disturbance at the home. The attorney said he was paroled on condition he observe the restraining order.

Police said the disturbance attracted a large crowd of neighbors in the Holland Street section, and added a crowd had gathered around the house when officers arrived.

The desk sergeant said he ordered officers to the scene after he received an "emergency" call from a telephone operator. Several other calls for the police followed the emergency call, the sergeant stated.

Police said they were informed by witnesses that an unidentified man entered the home during the fight and pulled Stein away from his wife. The man, whom police did not identify, stated, they said, that "Stein would have killed her."

Mrs. Stein's attorney said the divorce action was filed on grounds of cruelty. Stein, according to the attorney, was ordered to pay his wife $25 a week for support of two minor children pending final action of the court on the divorce suit.

Police said Stein will be given a hearing this morning in Police Court on the drunk and disorderly conduct charge, but added it would be up to Mrs. Stein's counsel or county authorities to prefer charges in connection with the alleged contempt action.

Officers John Powers and John Snyder made the arrest.

Ridgeley High Plans Course In Driver Education

Jesse Riggelman, physical education instructor at Ridgeley, W. Va., High School, will be the instructor for the driver education course the school will institute at the beginning of school in September, Melvin M. Heiskell, principal announced last night.

Coach Riggleman is in Morgantown, W. Va., this week attending an intensive five day course in driver education which is being offered by West Virginia University.

The Ridgeley Lions Club is sponsoring the course so that Ridgeley High School can qualify for the use of a dual-control automobile in the school this year.

He will be scheduled for two hours of driver education each school day and plans call for offering the course to about 40 students during the year.

The West Virginia Department of Education, Heiskell said, has been recommending for several years that schools offer courses of driver education.

The West Virginia Department of Public Safety also has been aiding, wherever possible, in the program. Statistics, officials point out, prove that 'teen age drivers have a bad accident record.

So far, some 5,000 of the 28,000 high schools in the United States have offered driver education courses, but not all of the schools have been able to present actual driving practice along with theoretical work. The American Automobile Association has co-operated in providing dual-control cars in many areas.

For the past two years, the subject has been included in the course of study in West Virginia.

Pilots Escape Injury In Accidents, But Farm Woman Holds Their Planes

A student pilot and his instructor escaped injury last night in a twin plane accident on the Clauson farm, four miles north of the city, but police said they may have trouble reclaiming the planes.

Mrs. Ruth A. Clauson, according to police, refused to let the pilots remove their planes, both slightly damaged, after they landed in a hay field on her property, located between Bedford and Mason roads.

The student, D. G. Dehrbach, 21, 721 Maryland Avenue, told police, they said, that his motor "concked out" and he was forced to make a forced landing on the Clauson farm. The instructor, Robert J. Stewart, 255 East Main Street, Frostburg, landed his plane near Dehrabach after the accident, police said.

Following the investigation by Cpl. Thomas Veditz, Maryland State Police, Dehrbach, over the protests of Mrs. Clauson, started to taxi his plane across the property for a takeoff, but the plane nosed over and was damaged slightly.

Police said the planes, both Piper J-3 Cubs from the Cumberland Airport, were slightly damaged, but neither pilot suffered a "scratch."

Dehrbach, according to police, was soloing while Stewart was checking his operations from the other plane at the time the motor stalled. Both planes had been in the air about an hour at the time of the accident, authorities stated.

Police said the plane caused some damage to the hay crop in the field, but explained they did not know what provisions the two pilots will have to make with Mrs. Clauson before they receive her permission to remove the planes.

Neither pilot could be reached late last night for comment.

The well known local dentist was a native of this city, a son of Mrs. Mary Miller Dixon, this city, and the late Charles F. Dixon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP) — Legislation authorizing payment of $5,000 as compensation for the death of Reuben Malkin, who was electrocuted May 28, 1943, while painting at the Cumberland, Md., post office, was signed by President Truman today.

The sum goes to Malkin's widow. He was painting electrical conduits at the post office when he touched a high tension feeder line carrying 2,300 votes.

Malkin, a 28-year-old Brooklyn, standing on a transformer while painting a conduit when he came in contract with the high tension wire.

The shock of the current threw Malkin from the platform to a concrete area 15 feet below, where he suffered a fractured skull and a crushed chest. Authorities reported these injuries were, however, secondary to the burns.

Dr. Linne H. Corson, then deputy county medical examiner, said Malkin suffered unusually severe burns which penetrated the flesh to the bone.

The man had returned to Cumberland from Frederick two days before the accident and, with one of his workmen, was completing the job of painting the post office when he met his death.

The only remaining work, authorities said, was the touching up of the conduit.

Steps To Improve Flow Of Traffic Cited In Report

Through Highway To South End Proposed

The crosstown viaduct, although an important improvement, is not the only work that will be required to provide adequate facilities for traffic flow in Cumberland's primary highway system, according to the report of Whitman, Requardt and Associates submitted to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Specific needs cited are improvement to highways serving South Cumberland, improved facilities on Bedford Road, and by-passes through West Side to serve heavy traffic flow to and from industrial areas which is now required to pass through the downtown area.

The report recommends improvements to a route to South Cumberland and the airport, and suggests that beginning at a proposed reconstructed intersection on Williams Street at the south end of Mechanic and Centre Streets a through highway be constructed following Wineow Street along its present alignment and through the Wineow Street underpass to Thomas Street, to Virginia Avenue, through the Virginia Avenue underpass, along Virginia Avenue on its present alignment, along a new right-of-way on Virginia Avenue extended and over a new interstate bridge to replace the present Wiley Ford bridge over the North Branch to a point in West Virginia on the present highway to the airport.

New Overpass Needed

The described improvement would require new right-of-way and construction at the south end of both Mechanic and Centre Streets, a new overpass of the Western Maryland railroad near the south end of Virginia Avenue and a new bridge replacing the present Wiley Ford bridge over the North Branch as its major construction features. It is suggested that every effort be made to obtain a curb to curb width of 38 feet.

A suggested alternative route south of the Wineow Street underpass would be the construction of the new highway following the C. and O. canal to South Cumberland and the relocated Wiley Ford bridge.

One-way traffic for Bedford and Frederick Streets is viewed as doing much to eliminate the present restricted traffic flow and dangerous conditions resulting from parked cars. Widening of both Bedford and Frederick Streets from Decatur southward to Centre and Mechanic Streets should be carried out to give additional driving width. To accomplish this without heavy property damage it is suggested that sidewalk width could be reduced to a minimum.

Would Help Traffic

A by-pass from the Henderson Avenue Viaduct southwestward over Mechanic Street, Wills Creek and the Western Maryland railroad to Wills Creek Avenue and thence to Fayette Street on West Side is seen as resulting in a definite improvement to traffic flow.

Later, it is believed possible this roadway could be extended south and east to join with existing streets near the end of Kelly Boulevard, providing an outlet for Kelly-Springfield traffic destined southeastward over McMullen Highway and northward through the Narrows.

Development and extension of the secondary highway system is termed largely dependent upon the growth of new sub-divisions for residential use. The report states that it will be to the advantage of the city as a whole if control is exercised over sub-divisions and new streets to insure proper width, grade and alignment and proper co-ordination with the existing street pattern.
